Containing the Freſheſt Advices, Foreign and Domeſtic.

By the Honourable
JOHN PENN, Eſquire,
Lieutenant-Governor, and Commander in Chief of the Province of Pennſylvania, and Counties of New-Caſtle, Kent and Suſſex, on Delaware,

A PROCLAMATION.

WHEREAS I have received Information, that many ill-diſpoſed Perſons, in expreſs Diſobedience to His Majeſty's Proclamation, and Royal Inſtructions, and regardleſs of the Rights of the Proprietaries, or the Indians in Alliance with the Engliſh, have, without any Licence or Authority, ſeated themſelves upon Lands within this Province, not yet purchaſed of the Natives: AND WHEREAS the making ſuch Settlements doth greatly tend to irritate the Indians, and may again involve us in a War with them, if not put an immediate Stop to: AND WHEREAS I have lately received His Majeſty's poſitive Commands to ſuppreſs ſuch unwarrantable Proceedings, and to put an End to theſe, and all other the like Encroachments for the future: I HAVE therefore thought fit, with the Advice of the Council, to iſſue this Proclamation, hereby ſtrictly enjoining and requiring, in His Majeſty's Name, all Perſons whatſoever, who have made any ſuch Settlements within this Province, immediately to evacuate and abandon them, as they will anſwer the contrary at their Peril. AND I do hereby prohibit all His Majeſty's Subjects, of this or any other Province or Colony, from making any Settlements, or taking any Poſſeſſion of Lands, by marking Trees, or otherwiſe, beyond the Limits of the laſt Indian Purchaſe within this Province, upon Pain of the ſevereſt Penalties of the Law, and of being excluded from the Privilege of ſecuring ſuch Settlements, ſhould the Lands, where they ſhall be made, be hereafter purchaſed of the Indians. AND WHEREAS it has been reported that a certain Frederick Stump, a German, ſettled beyond the Indian Purchaſe, near to Fort-Auguſta, had my Warrant or Authority for making ſuch Settlement; I do hereby declare, that the ſaid Report is utterly falſe and groundleſs, and that neither the ſaid Stump, nor any other Perſon, ever had the leaſt Encouragement from me to ſettle on any Lands unpurchaſed of the Indians; but that, on the contrary, I have conſtantly denied every Application of that Kind.

GIVEN under my Hand, and the Great Seal of the ſaid Province, at Philadelphia, the Twenty-third Day of September, in the Year of our Lord One Thouſand Seven Hundred and Sixty-ſix, and in the Sixth Year of his Majeſty's Reign.

JOHN PENN.

By his Honour's Command,
JOSEPH SHIPPEN, junior, Secretary.

GOD Save the KING.

St. PIERRE, in Martinico, Auguſt 21.

THIS colony, often afflicted by ſundry calamities, has now experienced one, the moſt dreadful of any ſince its ſettlement: A terrible hurricane has occaſioned misfortunes hardly reparable.

Wedneſday, the 13th of this month, at 10 o'clock at night, the horrizon grew dark, the moon pale, the ſtars ſcarcely twinkled; the heavens and the earth diſappeared from our view; all objects were wrapped up in the utmoſt darkneſs; the winds from the north-weſt burſted with the utmoſt violence; the clouds emitted torrents, mixed with igneous, ſulphureous, and bituminous matter; all ſeemed to portend the diſſolution of nature. The fury of the winds augment, the houſes ſhake, the roofs borne away, a dreadful noiſe is heard from all parts, and terror ſeizes every heart.

At midnight the hurricane increaſes, proceeding from all points of the compaſs; nothing can reſiſt its fury; here a wall falling down, there a houſe totally eraſed, burying, under its ruins, the child in its mother's arms, and the wife in thoſe of her ſpouſe. In this inſtant the foundations of the earth tremble; men, women, children and ſlaves, all endeavour to ſeek their preſervation by flight, but are detained by fear; and thinking their laſt moment is come, proſtrate themſelves, and join to the piercing cries, their moſt fervent prayers.

The horror of this moſt terrible night is increaſed by the devaſtations occaſioned by the ſea, the raging billows whereof, raiſed to the clouds, precipitate on the ſhore, and deſtroy all the veſſels in the harbour, overwhelming the mariners, whoſe lamentable cries ſpoke their diſtreſs, though without hopes of receiving the leaſt relief.

At 3 o'clock in the morning the winds abate, and ſoon daylight preſents to our afflicted view the moſt dreadful ſpectacle, and all the horrors we could imagine; the houſes deſtroyed; the ſtreets filled with their ruins; the ſhore covered with wrecks and dead bodies; the trees torn up by the roots, ſtopped all the roads, and the rivers ſwelled, rolling down huge ſtones from the hills.

At 5 o'clock we perceived a thick cloud ſuſpending over the mountain Pelée; the too great quantity of water which it contained, drew it on the mountain, where it broke, and overwhelmed the plain with its torrents of mud and water. At 6 o'clock the winds were entirely appeaſed; the ſea became ſmooth, and a calm ſucceeded to the moſt horrible tempeſt.

In the higheſt period of this hurricane were ſeen, iſſuing from the earth, rays of fire, which immediately diſperſed in the air, by which ſome people aſſert they were burnt.

Thirty-five brigantines, ſloops, ſchooners, and pettiaguers, of which twenty-eight were French, and ſeven Engliſh, beſides twelve paſſage canoes, periſhed in our road. To all theſe misfortunes we muſt add, the moſt deſpairing news from the country. On all the plantations in this neighbourhood, hardly remains any trace of the buildings, under whoſe ruins many of the proprietors have been buried; canes, coffee, cocoa, plantains and magnoc, were torn up by the roots, and deſtroyed; the number of thoſe who periſhed in this pariſh, is not yet known exactly; but by the number taken out of the ruins, found on the ſhore, and miſſing, we compute them at 90, and double the number wounded.

Our intendant was at Caze-Pilote the eve of the hurricane, and ran through great dangers, by its violence; he came here the day after; his ſoul was overwhelmed with grief and compaſſion, on account of this publick calamity; he employed all his care and attention, in eſtabliſhing that good order, ſo neceſſary in ſuch circumſtances.

This is a preciſe account of what happened at St. Pierre, and proceeding further, we ſhall find other pariſhes ſtill more unfortunate. The plantations of the Carbet, and of Caze-Pilote, have had the ſame fate with ours; they have no more buildings, proviſions, nor plantations.---Fort-Royal, of which moſt of the inhabitants were ruined by the dreadful Fire of the 20th of May, has not eſcaped this laſt calamity. The roofs of moſt part of the houſes were carried away, and ſeveral tumbled down; the buildings of the citadel were uncovered, and overſet; one of the barracks, 120 feet long, and 18 feet broad, was moved from its original ſituation ſeveral paces, though the building held entire; 9 Engliſh veſſels, anchored in the bay of Flamands, were driven on ſhore, and deſtroyed; ſeveral French ſchooners and ſloops were run on ſhore at Fond Belmard, at the Savanna, and La Carriere, which cannot be got off; many paſſage canoes tore to pieces on the wharffs; the ſhips anchored in the baſon, are moſtly all damaged; 15 of which, whoſe cables parted, run aground on the quays of the Carriere, at the entrance of the port; but it is hoped they will be got off. The inhabitants of this pariſh are totally ruined; the number of dead, yet known, amounts to 40, and as many wounded. The Lamentin, in general, has not ſuffered ſo much, at leaſt they have yet ſome buildings, ſome coffee trees, and a few pieces of canes, ſtanding; but no proviſions. Two or three houſes of the village were overſet, the reſt uncovered; 10 or 12 perſons, White and Black, were buried in the ruins, and about 20 wounded. The pariſhes of Trou-au-Chat, de la Riviere Sallée, du St. Eſprit, des Trois-Iſlets, des Ances d' Arlets, du Diamant, de St. Lucie, de la Riviere Pilote, du Marin, de St. Anne, and du Vauclin, all ſituated to the ſouthward of the iſland, have preſerved their buildings, except a few, though generally uncovered, but all their proviſions deſtroyed; ſo that we may ſafely ſay, that we have none remaining of any kind, and that all the ſugar fabricated is loſt; 18 French and Engliſh veſſels, in theſe parts, were run on ſhore; 5 loſt, and all the others got off, without much damage.

We muſt obſerve, that moſt part of theſe pariſhes were nearly ruined, by a hurricane in 1756; the wind was felt with more violence at Robert and Francois; the villages and habitations of thoſe two pariſhes are much in the ſame ſituation, as thoſe of Fort Royal, and Lamentin.

The ſloop Domaine du Roi, two French, and one Engliſh, veſſels, which were in this laſt port, have ſuffered no damage.

The Gros Morne, inhabited by coffee planters, are reduced to the moſt ſhocking miſery; buildings and plantations are all deſtroyed, without any probability of re-eſtabliſhing the former; their lands are worn out, and ſterile; they have no reſource left, but to abandon them, and ſettle elſewhere.

The pariſh of the Trinité is yet in a more deplorable ſituation, nothing there has been able to reſiſt the fury of the hurricane; half of the village was overthrown, and the other half uncovered; the roof of the church, which was remarkably ſtrong, was torn away from its walls, and carried, by pieces, a conſiderable diſtance from it; the buildings of the fort ruined, thoſe of the inhabitants, of all ſorts, overthrown, and their eſtates annihilated; of 17 or 18 veſſels, which were in the harbour (one of which from Europe) none have eſcaped; all of them have been run on ſhore, and a few only may be got off. The number of the dead, and wounded, in this pariſh, is greater than any elſewhere; the recital of it would make one ſhudder; they compute amongſt the dead 180 Whites and Blacks, and above 240 wounded: Here was ſeen a mother cruſhed to Death between two children, ſhe was leading by the hands, who were found aſleep, under the ruins, on each ſide of their dead mother, who graſped them ſtill. An old reſpectable man, cruſhed to death in ſight of his ſon; a ſon, following his mother, his ſpouſe, and his daughter, overwhelmed by the weight of an houſe; claſping in his arms, till day light, his dear mother, who was no more; at the ſame time, in the hearing of the lamentable cries of his expiring beloved wife, and deploring the terrible ſituation of his unhappy family; ſtill he lived; what a ſituation! Is not this dying ten thouſand deaths?

The pariſhes of St. Marie, le Marigot, la Grand'ance, la Baſſe Pointe, le Macouba, le Precheur, are in the ſame deplorable ſtate. The letters we daily receive from thence, would draw tears from the moſt obdurate hearts; their all is loſt, dwelling-houſes, ſugar-houſes, canes, ſugar in hogſheads, in the ſtores, and in the pots, plantains, coffee, cocoa, magnoc, the very trees which, ſince the firſt ſettlement of this iſland, had reſiſted the moſt ſevere tempeſts, were pulled out by the roots, and ſcattered over the earth. Thoſe beautiful, fertile, and pleaſing countries, now are become the moſt ſhocking ſpectacle of woe; all the veſſels which were in thoſe parts periſhed; with all their hands, a cabbin boy excepted, who, as the veſſel was ſinking, felt himſelf raiſed by the wind, or the waves, and was carried up to a great diſtance on the land, amazed at his deliverance. They compute 120 killed in thoſe parts, a great many wounded, and not one church ſtanding.

Our General was taking a tour of the iſland, to review the militia, and paſſed this cruel night at Robert. His compaſſion, at ſo many misfortunes, pierced his very ſoul; from this moment he employed his time in relieving the diſtreſſed; he ſpoke and comforted them, and wiped away their tears; he travelled over the Francois, the Lamentin, leaving, every where behind him, traces of his benevolence; he went to Fort Royal, where, without taking any reſt, he viſited the ſick, and from thence, wherever he thought his preſence moſt neceſſary; he went on board the ſtranded veſſels, and gave every where the moſt efficacious orders to ſoften, at leaſt, the diſtreſs, which he could not intirely remedy; the 17th and 18th he was here; he gave new life to the inhabitants, by comforting ſome, ſharing in the affliction of others, and taking the moſt proper methods to procure to this colony the moſt ſpeedy relief. However afflicting our ſituation was, the apprehenſions of a greater misfortune, by famine, filled us with conſternation. Our chiefs, convinced of this impending danger, removed our fears, by the wiſe law made by them the 18th inſtant, by which they permit the importation of foreign flour and biſcuit; paying only one per cent. as is cuſtomary on all other goods. One may ſee, by the following preamble of the ſaid law, the ſentiments which moved them on this occaſion.

"The hurricane which ranſacked this iſland the night of the 13th to the 14th of this month, having deſtroyed all ſorts of plantation proviſions, and the inhabitants, by this unfortunate event, being intirely deſtitute of means of ſubſiſtance, not only for the Negroes, but for moſt part of the White People, we think it our duty to procure them a neceſſary relief, by all convenient and poſſible means; in order to alleviate, as much as we can, the misfortunes under which they groan, French proviſions being now in this iſland in ſuch ſmall quantities, that they would not be ſufficient at any other time; and as this urgent neceſſity requires the greateſt diſpatch, we have no other means in our power, than to allow the neceſſary ſuccours to be imported from foreign countries, until the trade of France can ſupply our wants, by the large remittances which we have reaſon to expect. Thoſe preſſing motives, and our deſire to comply with his Majeſty's confidence, who has intruſted us with the adminiſtration of this colony, and in virtue of our power and authority, we have determined to permit the importation of foreign flour and biſcuit, either by the foreigners themſelves, or by French ſubjects, willing to undertake it," &c.

The 19th the general went back to Fort-Royal, from whence he will go to Trinité, the Gros Morne, and to all thoſe deplorable pariſhes of Capeſterre, as far as Macouba, to revive the drooping ſpirits of the inhabitants.

We muſt take notice of the generous proceeding of Captain Roſé, of Bourdeaux, who was ſelling his cargo at Trinité, and whoſe veſſel was drove on ſhore; he did not take advantage of this general calamity; he ſold his flour at the ſame price that he had done the eve of the hurricane, and diſtributed ſome to the moſt poor and deſtitute, payable at his return from France; too happy, ſaid he, that he could teſtify, by thoſe means, the ſincere affliction he felt for the Colony's misfortune; ſuch a noble proceeding excited the gratitude of all the inhabitants, who went in crouds to the ſhore, to haul off his ſhip, in which they ſucceeded; the veſſel did not ſuffer much damage.

We have not yet any certain news from Guadaloupe; we are told, by the maſter of a ſloop, who approached the ſhore, that they had ſuffered greatly, though not ſo much as we have; he ſaw ſeven ſloops run on ſhore, and, in ſeveral places, the plantations were turned upſide down. At St. Lucie, they hardly perceived the violence of the wind, the plantain trees only, in a few pariſhes, were blown down.

By letters from Dominico, we hear that the hurricane was much leſs felt than here; the plantations have only ſuffered in their proviſions; three pettiaguers were drove on ſhore, but the towns, in general, have not ſuffered much.

An Engliſh flag of truce ſailed from Barbados the 13th; far from feeling the wind, he complained of an extraordinary calm from the time he ſailed, until the 14th in the night, when he had a light ſouth eaſt wind, which brought him here. A ſloop, coming from Grenada, and touched at St. Vincents, reports the ſame.

The above is a true tranſlation from the Martinico Gazette, of the 21ſt of Auguſt, 1766. By PAUL FOOKS, Sworn Interpreter for the FRENCH and SPANISH LANGUAGES, in the Province of Pennſylvania.

TO be SOLD at public ſale, at the London Coffee-Houſe, in Philadelphia, on Tueſday, the 7th of October inſt. at ſix o' clock in the evening, USHER and MALCOLM's SUGAR-HOUSE, in Southwark, near the city, with all the utenſils thereunto belonging, all in compleat good order. The houſe is of brick, ſixty feet front, on Shippen-ſtreet, and thirty-three feet deep, five ſtories high, the cellar floored, and well calculated for boiling, in which ſtands two large copper pans, that will boil about fifty hundred of raw ſugar, with two large copper coolers, ciſterns, and every thing compleat, and well calculated for carrying on the refining buſineſs extenſively, by being well ſtored with moulds, &c. inventory of which will be ſeen at the London coffee-houſe. Alſo a building adjoining the eaſt-end of the ſugar-houſe, eighteen feet in front, and thirty-three deep, under which is a cellar that contains 3000 buſhels of coal. Likewiſe a ſtable, chaiſe-houſe, and ſtores, on ſaid lot. The lot of ground, on which the ſugar-houſe, and other buildings ſtand, is 104 feet front on ſaid ſtreet, and 60 feet deep, clear of ground rent; all of which are to be put up at the firſt ſale.

The gloomy proſpect that threatened America, ſome time paſt, prevented the ſale of the above concern; but as affairs have taken an agreeable turn, and the ſugar refining buſineſs now extremely good, beſides the proſpect of this market's being plentifully ſupplied with ſugars, there is every thing favourable in view to the purchaſer.

As the partnerſhip has been ſome time paſt diſſolved, and the company wants to cloſe their accounts, they are determined to ſell the above concern, at the enſuing ſale, to the higheſt bidder, and may be viewed any time before the ſale, by applying to the owners.

N. B. The purchaſer, paying down one-third, may have a year for the remainder, by giving ſecurity.

By the Lord Hyde Packet, Captain GODDARD, arrived at New-York, in a ſhort Paſſage from Falmouth, we have the following Advices, viz.

VENICE, June 24.

IT is currently reported here, but not altogether credited, that Prince Heraclius, at the head of a powerful body of Georgians, had defeated, and intirely routed, a body of 50,000 Turks, under the command of the Baſhaw of Erzerum. The circumſtances of the time when, and place where, it happened, are not mentioned.

Edinburgh, July 19. Captain Ramage, bound from Boſton, who was put aſhore on a rock near Montroſe, is now got off, and has come up the Frith, all ſafe.

LONDON, July 17.

Letters from Algiers, dated May 20, ſay, that the new Dey has not only confirmed and ſigned the treaty concluded by Commodore Sels, between the States General of the United Provinces and this Regency, but likewiſe the ſeparate article, ſtipulated by his predeceſſor and the Captains de Beer and Braak. The 8th of April ſix of the 40 Turkiſh ſoldiers who had conſpired againſt the Dey, were ſtrangled, the reſt having made their eſcape by means of a little bark, which they had built clandeſtinely, about a quarter of a league off from this city.

July 19. It is confidently reported, that freſh diſturbances are likely to happen in Germany.

We are aſſured that all the late ſcandalous reports, relative to a celebrated perſonage in Germany, are intirely falſe.

The account that the ſaid illuſtrious perſon had ſent back the enſigns of a noble order, is equally falſe and ſcandalous. The true ſtate of the caſe is as follows; on the death of any Knight of the antient and noble Order of the Garter, the inſignia are uſually ſent over to England. Thoſe ſent over lately, belonged to a prince of the houſe of Brandenburgh-Anſpach, who died about nine years ſince; which are the property of the chancellor of the garter; the preſent chancellor claims them as his property, and the executors of the late chancellor (in whoſe time the prince's death happened) claim them as their property; in the mean while, till this affair is determined, the inſignia remain in the hands of the garter king at arms.

The following ſketch of a narrative of the late negociation was yeſterday handed about.

For ſeveral weeks paſt it was complained, that the ſubſiſting miniſters had not either ſtrength or ability ſufficient to conduct the public buſineſs; which was then, and is ſtill, becoming every day more critical. Without the participation therefore of any of them, a reſolution was taken to make another adminiſtration; and, in conſequence of this reſolution, Mr. Pitt was ſent for from Burton in Somerſetſhire. Yeſterday ſe'ennight that gentleman come to town, and that evening he had a conference with the Lord Chancellor, who is ſaid to have been the negociator of this intended political treaty. On Saturday Mr. Pitt was with his M. at Richmond for a conſiderable time. Lord Temple was then immediately ſent for. On Monday Lord Bute (who had been in town during the whole time that the foundation of this negociation was laying, and contriving) ſet out for his ſeat at Luton, in Bedfordſhire. The ſame evening Lord Temple came to town, and next day waited upon his M. at Richmond. On Wedneſday his Lordſhip was with Mr. Pitt nearly the whole day, and on Thurſday with his M. again, both at St. James's, and the Queen's Palace; particularly at the latter, for a conſiderable time. Some traces of an influence being now fully diſcovered, and certain conditions being demanded, the whole ended with another conference at the Lord Chancellor's that evening.

Lord Northumberland, brother-in-law, and Mr. Stuart Mackenzie, own brother to Lord Bute, 'tis ſaid with confidence, are to have certain great offices, in conſequence of arrangements ſoon expected to take place.

We are told that, in a late conference, a Noble Lawyer took the liberty of declaring his ſentiments very freely; among other things he declared, that the Adminiſtration muſt be changed, or all would ſoon be confuſion; that the advices of the ſecret tranſactions of foreign Courts; the contempt ſhewn to our councils, and demands by foreign Powers; the diſſatisfaction ſhewn by almoſt all ranks at home; and the diſtreſſes, and almoſt deſperate ſituation, of our poor, all concurred to make ſuch a change abſolutely neceſſary without delay; and that we did not want a coalition of parties in the Adminiſtration, but a coalition of abilities.

The fortifications in the Highlands of Scotland, from Inverneſs to Fort Auguſtus, are ordered to be put in repair.

The Dutch News-writers pretend to have Advice from London, that the Earl of Rochford will be charged to demand of the Court of France the Object of the Diſpoſitions making in ſeveral of their Ports.

Extract of a Letter from a Gentleman in Paris to his Friend in London.

" By the prudent Regulations and Management of an able Miniſtry, our Finances are already in as flouriſhing a Condition as they were in before the Beginning of the late War; and our Army and Navy in a much better Condition to commence a new War."

July 22. In all the late changes of the miniſtry, it is looked upon as ſurprizing, that nothing has even ſo much as been attempted to redreſs the grievances, or eſtabliſh the credit, of the Britiſh commerce in Portugal, which now languiſhes under all the oppreſſions which a haughty and favourite Prime Miniſter, from ſelf-intereſted motives of an all-graſping monopoly, has laid it under.

Yeſterday General Murray arrived in town from Quebec.

July 24. It is ſaid that Prince Ferdinand's penſion, on the Iriſh Eſtabliſhment, is only 2000l. per annum, and there is no truth in the report of his having entered into the French ſervice.

Tueſday laſt arrived in town, from his government of the Leeward Iſlands, Governor Thomas.

July 26. It is agreed between our Court and the Chapter of Oſnabrug, that during the Minority of the Prince-Biſhop, his vote in the Diet of the Empire ſhall be void.

The Hon. Eaſt-India Company have received freſh advices over land from Lord Clive, dated in December laſt. Amongſt other things it is ſaid, his Lordſhip has remitted to China 300,000*l. to pay for the cargoes of the ſhips that may arrive there; and alſo paid off about the ſame ſum, for which the Company paid intereſt, at the rate of* 8 per cent.

We hear that yeſterday the whole liſt of arrangements was ſettled, and that only his Majeſty and Mr. Pitt know exactly, till ſuch time as a declaration is made.

Authentick advices has been received at Paris, of the death of Elizabeth Farneſe, the Queen Dowager of Spain, and Mother of the preſent King. Her Majeſty was of the Houſe of Parma, and was born the 25th of October 1692. Her iſſue, beſides the King, is the Infant Don Lewis, born July 25, 1727, and the Infanta Donna Maria Antonietta, born November 17, 1729, and eſpouſed on the 12th of April 1750, to his Royal Highneſs the Duke of Savoy.

It is ſaid the Prince Stadtholder is expected in town by the middle of next month, and we hear great preparations are making to receive him with a ſplendor ſuitable to his dignity.

We hear his Majeſty was yeſterday pleaſed to confer the government of Weſt Florida on Alexander Duncan, Eſq;

July 29. It is ſaid the Biſhop of Oſnabrug will ſoon have the honours of his grand uncle, as Duke of Cumberland, conferred on him, which will be continued to the ſecond ſon of the Royal line.

It is ſaid, that the reaſon of the poſt of Lord Privy Seal being pitched upon for Mr. Pitt, in preference to that of Secretary of State, was, that the former does not make him reſponſible for meaſures which he may not be allowed to guide, this high and lucrative office being almoſt a ſinecure; however, his holding any poſt in the adminiſtration, will be ſufficient to gain it reſpect both at home and abroad, and to give it ſtability and importance.

The Right Hon. the Lord Lyttleton will not ſucceed to any ſhare in the adminiſtration.

July 31. His Majeſty has appointed Lord William Campbell Governor of Nova Scotia.

His Majeſty has alſo appointed John Wentworth, Eſq; Governor of New Hampſhire.

We hear before long we ſhall have advice of ſome diſagreeable alliances being formed in the North.

The reſpectful Manner in which the Americans appear to receive the News of the Repeal of the Stamp-Act, does them very great Honour, and effectually juſtifies the Meaſure. The Nation will receive Advantage from it; the Miniſtry ſome Credit; and great Glory will accrue to thoſe who in ſo diſtinguiſhed a Manner took the Lead in accompliſhing it. The Framers of that Tax, and Oppoſers of its Abolition, muſt now become doubly odious, both as Stateſmen and Patriots, or rather in their pretenſions to either Character, which can never more be allowed them; for as it is diſgraceful to take wrong Meaſures, it muſt be infamous to aim at ſupporting them, when they are diſcovered to be wrong.

Beſides the changes already mentioned to have taken place, the following, among others leſs probable, it is ſaid, will ſoon be declared, viz.

George Cooke, Eſq; Member for Middleſex, Col. Barre, and the Right Hon. James Oſwald, to be Vice Treaſurers of Ireland.

Mr. Yorke has reſigned, and will accept of nothing.

Mr. De Grey is appointed Attorney General; and Mr. Wills, Solicitor General.

Judge Wilmot, to be Chief Juſtice of the Common-Pleas.

Mr. Huſſey, a Judge in the King's-Bench, in the room of Judge Wilmot.

The Hon. Mr. Stuart Mackenzie (brother to Lord Bute) Privy Seal for Scotland.

Mr. James Grenville, Pay-maſter.

The Hon. Hans Stanley is to go Embaſſador to Peterſburgh: The Earl of Rochfort to Paris.

We are informed the Earl of Egmont is to continue Firſt Lord of the Admiralty.

Auguſt 2. Yeſterday the Lord Chancellor was at Court, and received the compliments of the nobility, and other perſons of diſtinction, on his promotion.

The Earl of Dartmouth, who was firſt Lord of Trade, and intended to have been Secretary of State for the Colonies, has reſigned.

It is ſaid that the Pay-office will be divided between two, and that Mr. Dowdeſwell will be one of the perſons appointed.

Yeſterday the Earl of Shelburne had a numerous levee at his houſe in Hill-ſtreet, for the firſt time ſince his being appointed Secretary of State.

Yeſterday the Hon. Charles York, Eſq; was at Court, and, it is ſaid, reſigned his place of his Majeſty's Attorney General.

In conſequence of ſome late diſpatches to the Courts of Vienna and Berlin, it is daily expected that an anſwer will arrive from theſe two Courts, on an affair of the greateſt importance to the future peace and tranquility of Europe.

It is ſaid that three attempts have been made to obtain an addreſs from this city, on occaſion of ſome late changes, but without effect.

Auguſt 5. Friday Iſaac Barre, Eſq; Member for Wycomb, kiſſed his Majeſty's hand, on being appointed Joint Vice Treaſurer of Ireland.

Very healing meaſures are ſaid to be on the carpet, with regard to adjuſting certain late differences with a northern potentate.

We hear that Lord George Sackville has reſigned his place of Vice Treaſurer of Ireland.

We are informed that a noble Duke, who has ever been diſtinguiſhed by his loyalty and attachment to the preſent Royal Family, has, greatly to his honour, a ſecond time refuſed a penſion, on being removed from a high poſt in the Adminiſtration.

Some letters by the laſt Liſbon mail adviſe, that the Malabars had broke the truce with the Viceroy of Goa.

They write from Algiers, that they are buſy in fixing up a boom and chain for the defence of the harbour, being in fear of a bombardment.

Auguſt 7. A council is ſummoned to meet at St. James's this day, when, it is ſaid, ſome further alterations and promotions will take place.

On Thurſday laſt the Hon. Henry Grenville reſigned his employment as one of the Commiſſioners of his Majeſty's cuſtoms.

Notwithſtanding people may think they have ſufficient cauſe to ſuſpect the Patriotiſm of a certain great man, yet, for many ſtrong reaſons, improper to be divulged at preſent, we are firmly perſuaded, his conduct will convince them, at the meeting of Parliament, that the P----ge hath not in the leaſt diminiſhed the zeal or integrity of the Patriot.

We hear a Spaniſh war is talked of, and that a certain nobleman has adviſed (as he did upon a former occaſion) to ſend a fleet to Cadiz to demand a categorical anſwer, with reſpect to ſome part of the behaviour of Spain ſince the late peace; about which a memorial is now preparing, to which no evaſive anſwer will be received.

It is expected that a categorical anſwer will be demanded from the States General of the United Provinces, relative to an affair of the utmoſt conſequence to this kingdom.

Yeſterday there was a great Council at St. James's, at which the Lord Preſident, the Lord Chancellor, the Lord Privy Seal, the two Secretaries of State, and ſeveral other Lords of the Privy Council, aſſiſted; which did not break up till paſt four o'clock.

The ſame day William De Grey, Eſq; was ſworn in before the Lord Chancellor, his Majeſty's Attorney-General. As was alſo ------ Wills, Eſq; his Majeſty's Solicitor-General, in room of Mr. De Grey.

The alarms propagated ſome days paſt as if this Nation was on the eve of an approaching rupture with Spain, were, as we are informed, without the leaſt foundation.

It is reported that ſome farther advices were received, on Tueſday laſt, at the India-houſe, from Holland, relating to the ſucceſsful negotiations of Lord Clive with the Princes of that Country.

Intimation having been given by a lady, that a late Commoner was inclined to pay a viſit at Stowe; anſwer was made, that he might come if he pleaſed, provided he brought the E. of B. along with him.

Auguſt 9. The Right Hon. the Earl of Hillſborough is appointed firſt Lorſt of Trade.

On Wedneſday George Cooke, Eſq; member for Middleſex, was appointed one of the Joint Paymaſters of the Forces.

We hear that Lord North is appointed Paymaſter-General of his Majeſty's forces, in the room of the Hon. Charles Townſhend.

On Wedneſday laſt Daniel Moore, Eſq; was appointed Receiver-General for South Carolina.

Yeſterday General Burton and his Lady, who lately arrived from America, were introduced to their Majeſties at St. James's, and were graciouſly received.

Yeſterday Lord Viſcount Ligonier reſigned his command of Colonel of the firſt regiment of foot guards, which is given to the Marquis of Granby.

On Wedneſday laſt ſix principal Merchants, viz. Meſſrs. Trecothick, Long, Hanbury, Morſe, Stewart, and Vaughan, deputed from the Merchants of London, trading to the Weſt-Indies, and to North America, waited on the Marquis of Rockingham with an addreſs, in which they remark, that, his Lordſhip being no longer in a public ſtation, they are exempt from even the ſuſpicion of flattery;----and expreſſing their ſenſe of the eſſential benefits received, during a period, ſhort indeed, but truly remarkable for the nobleſt exertions in favour of the civil and commercial intereſts of theſe kingdoms, happily diſpelling the threatning clouds, and opening a ſyſtem of commerce, liberal and uſeful beyond all former example.

It is Mr. Gomm, a wealthy Engliſh Merchant, and Court Banker at Peterſburgh, who has undetaken to build ſome Ruſſian men of war of the line, for the ſervice of her Imperial Majeſty.

BOSTON, September 22.

Captain Peter Wells, who arrived here on Thurſday laſt from a Whaling Voyage, took up a Schooner the 16th of Auguſt, in Lat. 52: 20, N. with neither Sails nor Running Rigging, which had three Men on board, who had been taken by the Eſkemaux Indians, in Eſkemaux-Bay, the 3d of July laſt; the Captain and two others were killed, and theſe three wounded, but got aſhore.---The next day the Indians went off, when theſe Men came down, and the Mate ſwam aboard; he then made a Raft for the others to come on board alſo; ſoon after which they got ſome Powder and Shot, and loaded two Swivels, to be in Readineſs, leſt they ſhould be again attacked. The Morning after the Wind coming fair, they were preparing to quit the Harbour, and had weighed one Anchor, but before they weighed the other, there appeared 7 Shallops in Sight, and 7 Canoes before them; they came ſo near as to fire Small Arms on board the Schooner; but on the Mate's firing a Swivel, which unluckily ſet a Barrel of Powder on Fire, and burnt him very much; and the Indians hearing ſuch a Noiſe, and ſeeing ſo much Fire, went off. The Schooner belonged to Caſco-Bay, but we have not heard the Captain's Name.---Capt. Wells meeting a Veſſel bound to Caſco-Bay, put the Men on board, where they doubtleſs are arrived.

PHILADELPHIA, October 2.

Extract of a Letter from London, Auguſt 9, 1766.

" We are very much concerned to hear Mr. Franklin's Character is called in Queſtion, on Account of the Part he acted the laſt Seſſion of Parliament; ſo far from being an Abettor of the Stamp-Act, his Evidence, at the Bar of the Houſe, was allowed to be one of the ſtrongeſt, and moſt ſatisfactory, in Favour of the Repeal, and of the Colonies; and we are firmly perſuaded, his utmoſt Endeavours were at all times exerted to that End, having been Eye-witneſſes of his Aſſiduity, in attending the Committees of the Merchants, and of his publick Behaviour at different times, in the two laſt Seſſions of Parliament.

SARGENT, CHAMBERS, and Company."

WHEREAS I have received Information, that many ill-disposed Persons, in express Disobedience to His Majesty's Proclamation, and Royal Instructions, and regardless of the Rights of the Proprietaries, or the Indians in Alliance with the English, have, without any Licence or Authority, seated themselves upon Lands within this Province, not yet purchased of the Natives: AND WHEREAS the making such Settlements doth greatly tend to irritate the Indians, and may again involve us in a War with them, if not put an immediate Stop to: AND WHEREAS I have lately received His Majesty's positive Commands to suppress such unwarrantable Proceedings, and to put an End to these, and all other the like Encroachments for the future: I HAVE therefore thought fit, with the Advice of the Council, to issue this Proclamation, hereby strictly enjoining and requiring, in His Majesty's Name, all Persons whatsoever, who have made any such Settlements within this Province, immediately to evacuate and abandon them, as they will answer the contrary at their Peril. AND I do hereby prohibit all His Majesty's Subjects, of this or any other Province or Colony, from making any Settlements, or taking any Possession of Lands, by marking Trees, or otherwise, beyond the Limits of the last Indian Purchase within this Province, upon Pain of the severest Penalties of the Law, and of being excluded from the Privilege of securing such Settlements, should the Lands, where they shall be made, be hereafter purchased of the Indians. AND WHEREAS it has been reported that a certain Frederick Stump, a German, settled beyond the Indian Purchase, near to Fort-Augusta, had my Warrant or Authority for making such Settlement; I do hereby declare, that the said Report is utterly false and groundless, and that neither the said Stump, nor any other Person, ever had the least Encouragement from me to settle on any Lands unpurchased of the Indians; but that, on the contrary, I have constantly denied every Application of that Kind.

GIVEN under my Hand, and the Great Seal of the said Province, at Philadelphia, the Twenty-third Day of September, in the Year of our Lord One Thousand Seven Hundred and Sixty-six, and in the Sixth Year of his Majesty's Reign.

Auguſt 26. By advices from Weſt-Florida we are informed, that a large body of Creek Indians were arrived at Penſacola, conducted by half-breed Molton. They aſſured governor Johnſtone of their attachment to the Britiſh nation, and requeſted that the Engliſh would remain neuter in the preſent war between them and the Choctaws.

According to information received from different parts of the province, notwithſtanding the unuſual quantities of rain that have fallen laſt ſpring and this ſummer, if the harveſt ſeaſon ſhould prove good, there is a proſpect of a vaſt crop of rice being made: But the indico plant has ſuffered greatly by the rains; and the crop of corn is not likely to be very conſiderable.

September 1.

Extract of a letter from Penſacola.

"The Creeks and Choctaws are now at war together. The firſt, before the Choctaws meddled with them, were very ſaucy and inſolent towards the white people; but upon a talk ſent up to their nation, by his excellency governor Johnſtone, reprimanding them for their conduct, they returned a very ſubmiſſive anſwer, and hoped we would not go to war with them, as they were ſorry for what they had done, and deſired to live our friends for the future; requeſting at the ſame time, that his excellency would be pleaſed to ſhew no partiality, to either of the parties who were at war together, and give one no more powder and ball than the other."

September 8. Captain John Leaycroft, who arrived here laſt Saturday from Jamaica, and left Kingſton the 16th of Auguſt, gives us the following information, viz. That though the inhabitants of that iſland were very much alarmed with the ſhocks of an earthquake felt there in the night of the 11th of June, and on the ſea quite across to Cuba, yet ſlight ſhocks had been ſo frequent ſince, at leaſt twice or thrice every week, that they were now ſcarcely regarded.---That he heard frequent reports of an earthquake having done conſiderable damage at St. Jago de Cuba, but no particulars till three days before his departure, when he dined in company of the maſter of a Spaniſh veſſel, lately from Cuba, who informed the company, that St. Jago was totally deſtroyed, not a brick or ſtone houſe left ſtanding, and the Moro-Caſtle there levelled with the ground; that the ſhock was ſo violent and ſudden, that near 5000 perſons were buried in the ruins or ſwallowed up, and the earth rolled like the ſwell of a ſea. Captain Leaycroft did not aſk when this happened, but underſtood it to be on or about the 11th of June. That when he came out of Kingſton harbour (Auguſt 16th in the morning) he had the wind at W. to which a calm ſoon ſucceeded, and about 10 o'clock a ſevere ſtorm, or hurricane, came on, and continued without abating till five in the afternoon, blowing from the E. N. E. which he ſuppoſes to have done conſiderable damage.---That on the 30th, he ſpoke with a ſnow from Jamaica for Liverpool, John Hawkins, maſter, who left Kingſton the 20th, and informed him, that though the hurricane which happened on the 16th, had been very ſevere, yet no very conſiderable damage had been done thereby, except to a large ſugar-loaded ſhip, which was drove aſhore at Port-Morant, and many ſmall veſſels wrecked in the ports, and on the coaſt moſt expoſed to the wind.---The 3d inſtant he ſaw a diſmaſted deep loaded ſhip in the gulph, but did not ſpeak with her.

September 9. The laſt accounts from the Creek country inform us, that eight hundred of thoſe Indians were gone, and going, to war againſt the Choctaws.

They write from North-Carolina, that one William Linvill, his ſon, and another young man, who had gone over the mountains at the head of the Yadkin river to hunt, were there ſurprized by ſome Indians: The father and ſon were both killed on the ſpot; the other young man got off, though much wounded, and arrived at his ſettlement, where he is ſince dead. No accounts had been received of what tribe or nation the Indians were: But it is thought, the relations of thoſe Cherokees who were killed laſt year in Virginia, will, according to their inhuman cuſtom, take every opportunity of revenge, at leaſt till they have killed as many as they loſt.

The ſame letters add, that the government of North-Carolina hath agreed, that the line dividing that province from the hunting-grounds claimed by, and reſerved to, the Cherokees, ſhall be immediately run out, as propoſed by the ſaid Indians in their talk to the honourable John Stuart, Eſq; ſuperintendant of the ſouthern diſtrict of America, viz. From the place where the line behind this province terminates on Reedy-River, a north courſe to the mountains, and thence a direct courſe to colonel Chiſwell's lead mine, on the Great Kannawah, behind Virginia. In conſequence of which, orders have been diſpatched to Mr. Cameron, the ſuperintendant's deputy in the Cherokee nation, to proceed with ſuch headmen as the ſaid nation ſhall depute, to meet the perſons appointed by his excellency governor Tryon, in order to finiſh this very important buſineſs.

September 16. By letters from the Cherokee country we are informed, that the white people mentioned in our laſt, were killed by a party of northward Indians, who ſtill continue their incurſions againſt the Cherokees, notwithſtanding the ſteps taken by Sir William Johnſon, and Mr. Stuart, to effect a peace between them. The ſon of Attakullakulla, and ſeven others, his relations, were lately killed by a party who fell upon them as they were picking berries at a ſmall diſtance from their habitations. Ouconnoſtota, or the great-warrior, and ſeveral other headmen, were lately at fort Prince-George, on a viſit to Mr. Price, the commandant, who delivered and explained to them, a talk from the ſuperintendant, relating, among other things, to the war between the Creeks and Choctaws: Ouconnoſtota ſaid they were both rogues, and might fight it out between themſelves. It appeared the Creeks had been tampering with the Cherokees, in order to induce them to take part with them againſt the Choctaws.

September 22. By a gentleman who was lately at Cuba, we are informed, that the earthquake mentioned in this paper of the 8th inſtant, had not proved ſo fatal to St. Jago as there mentioned; that only part of the caſtle, all the churches, and moſt of the dwelling-houſes had been deſtroyed: But that the ſhock extended through all the ſouth ſide of the iſland, in many parts of which the ground was much rent, and in ſome places ſunk.

We have the pleaſure to learn by the maſter of a veſſel in four weeks from Jamaica, that the hurricane felt on the 16th of Auguſt, paſſed to leeward of that iſland, without doing any other damage there than what was occaſioned by a great ſwell of the ſea.

The brigantine Nancy, James Brown, maſter, from St. Euſtatius for Marblehead, in New-England, put in here laſt Monday, having loſt her mainmaſt in a violent ſtorm, twenty days before ſhe came in.

NEW-YORK, October 6.

Captain Wilſon, in 25 Days from Nevis, the 20th ult. in Lat. 30: 44, Long. 69, ſpoke with Captain Johnſton, from Virginia for Briſtol, all well on board.

Yeſterday Captain Gilford arrived here from Jamaica, in 42 Days, and adviſes, that the Gale of Wind they had lately in that Iſland, and ſuppoſed to be a Hurricane, did no Damage.

ALBANY, September 29, 1766.

His Excellency Sir Henry Moore, Bart. arrived here on Thurſday laſt, late in the evening, from his expedition on Lake Champlain, and proceeded immediately to Captain Schuyler's; from whence he ſet out again yeſterday for Schenectady, in his way to Sir William Johnſon's, attended by ſeveral gentlemen of this city.------Whilſt his Excellency and general Carleton, were employed in ſettling the boundaries between the two provinces, the Cachnawagha Indians, reſiding on the river St. Lawrence, having been informed of their arrival at the upper end of Lake Champlain, ſent a deputation to welcome them, which they received in their tents, on the iſle de la Motte, with the uſual ceremonies; and were addreſſed by one of the chiefs in the following words,

Brothers, the governors of New-York and Quebec,

THE ſeven confederate nations of the province of Quebec, having heard of your coming to theſe parts, thought it their duty to ſend a deputation to wait upon, and to addreſs you on your arrival.----We their deputies, therefore, thank the Being above, for having been pleaſed to let us meet you in good health, and for having guarded you on your journey from any accident; and likewiſe for having protected our new Governor on his voyage over the great lake, to arrive ſafe in his government; and we moſt heartily bid him welcome, and wiſh him perfect health and happineſs to govern the ſame, recommending the Indian nations in his government to his favour and protection; this we confirm with theſe

Strings of wampum.

Brothers,

Having at the ſame time heard, that you was to aſcertain and fix the boundaries between your reſpective provinces, we ſaw it a very proper and convenient opportunity, to return the great King of England, our father, our moſt humble thanks, through you, for having moſt graciouſly taken notice of all Indian nations, their lands, and trade in America, in his royal proclamation of October 1763; which our friend and brother Sir William Johnſon, had then publiſhed to us, by his deputy, Captain Claus: And we moſt heartily requeſt of you, to ſupport and protect us in the ſame, as our hunting grounds lay chiefly in your two governments.

A large belt of black wampum.

Brothers,

Since we lived under the French government, we enjoyed our hunting and fiſhing about this lake, without interruption or moleſtation; and were aſſured by the French Governor to continue ſo to do, as long as we lived hereabouts. As to the dominion of the lake, and the lands thereupon, it is true, he reserved that to the French King; but as to the wild beasts in the wood, and the fish in the waters thereof, he said they were for the use of the Indian nations living about it, without exception; and which accordingly we have enjoyed above this eighty years past: But now, Brothers, since this lake and country is in your possession, we find there have several settlements been making thereupon, which although it was not the case in the French time, yet we make no objection to it; all that surprises and alarms us is, that some of these new settlers have told to some of our people, that they should not hunt within their right; should this be the case, and they have it in their power so to do, it would at once frustrate our present hopes of his Majesty's good will towards us, and deprive us of our principal subsistance and livelihood.---And we beg by this belt of wampum, that you would be pleased to support us in what his Majesty was graciously pleased to reserve to us, and be glad of your opinion and answer upon what we have now laid before you. A long belt of wampum.

Brothers,

What we have been speaking to you, concerning the lake and lands in question, was only since the time the Europeans have come amongst us; as to the original owners thereof, it is well known to have been the undisputed right of the Six Nations, and was chiefly occupied in the hunting seasons by the antient Mohawks, whose descendants we are; and our forefathers going to hunt, chiefly in this neighbourhood, was one of the principal reasons for our settling upon the river St. Lawrence, near Montreal; as whenever they killed any game nearest that market, they carried it there, and being well received and flattered by the French; and on the contrary, slighted and neglected by the Dutch, who then possessed the province of New-York; families after families settled and remained in Canada, which occasioned the establishment of what to this day is called the French Mohawks, and where we now live.----As to the first building ever made upon Lake Champlain, it is well known to be Crown Point, which our middle-aged men all well remember; and the Six Nations hearing of it, immediately remonstrated against it to the French Governor, who telling them it was to guard against a sudden attack from the English, prevailed upon them with difficulty, to let him finish it; which at last they consented to, with condition, that no other settlement should be made upon the lake hereafter, which he readily engaged in, and promised to observe.

Brothers,

The last part of our speech we have only made you by way of information; and therefore give no wampum upon it.

To which their Excellencies returned the following answer.

Brothers,

WE return you our sincere thanks for your compliments of congratulation on our arrival here; and are extremely happy in having the earliest opportunity of giving you the strongest assurances of our good will towards you.

Brothers,

As we are persuaded you will not be wanting on your parts, to merit that protection which has been granted to you by the British Crown, we shall always discourage every attempt made in our respective provinces of New-York and Quebec, to disturb you in those rights and privileges which have been confirmed to you; and shall endeavour, by every means, to promote a mutual confidence and good understanding with the seven confederate nations; recommending it to you, at the same time, on this, as well as on any future occasion, to make a proper distinction between acts of government, and the proceedings of individuals; nor to suppose, from the rash and unjustifiable actions of particular persons, that any public countenance will be given to violence and oppression."

Several presents were afterwards made to them, of different kinds of provisions; with which, as well as the assurances of protection given to them, they appeared highly satisfied, and set out on their return the same day.

Philadelphia, September 18, 1766.

DOCTOR SHIPPEN's fifth course of anatomical lectures will begin on Thursday, the sixteenth of October, at six o'clock in the evening.

The Doctor takes this opportunity to inform the public, that his first course was read in the year 1762, and was premised by an oration, delivered in the State-house, before many of the principal inhabitants of this city; wherein he proposed a plan for the institution of a medical school in Philadelphia, to which he then declared that course of anatomy was introductory.

The use of such an institution, and the practicability and propriety of it at that time, were expressed in these words: "All "these (meaning the disadvantages that attended the study of "physic, &c.) may, and I hope will soon be remedied, by a "medical school in America; and what place in America so fit "for such a school as Philadelphia, that bids so fair, by its rapid "growth, to be soon the metropolis of all the Continent? Such "a school is properly begun by an anatomical class, and, for "our encouragement, let us remember, that the famous school "of physic at Edinburgh, which is now the first in Europe, "has not had a beginning fifty years, and was begun by the ana-"tomical lectures of Doctor Monro, who is still living, &c."

Doctor Shippen thinks it necessary, for some reasons, to publish this extract from his oration, to acquaint those who were not present when it was delivered, that he proposed, and began to execute, a plan for the institution of a medical school in this city four years ago; which, he has the pleasure to inform the public, is now improved, by being connected with the college of Philadelphia, and has succeeded beyond his highest expectations.

As no course of lectures on the theory and practice of physic, is proposed this winter, and as several young gentlemen, who design to settle in the spring, have expressed a desire to be instructed in that useful branch of medicine, the Doctor intends to gratify them, by adding to his course a few general lectures on diseases, in which he will treat of their causes and symptoms, with their indications, and method of cure.

No person will be admitted without a ticket, which may be had of the Doctor, at his house, or of Mr. Cowell, at the Doctor's office, in Fourth-street. Each pupil to pay six pistoles. A perpetual pupil twelve pistoles.

We hear from the Grenades, that a large ſhip commanded by Captain M'Carty, belonging to this place, in heaving down to clean, went to pieces.

Yeſterday Captain Coppinger arrived here from Martinico, and informs, that in the late hurricane there, his veſſel, and Captain Engliſh, alſo of this Port, were both loſt.

We hear from Newbury, that laſt Monday as a ſmall veſſel, of about 20 tons, belonging to Haverhill, having on board three men and two boys, was attempting to croſs Newbury-Bar, the ſwell of the ſea, which at that time ran very high, ſuddenly ſtruck her on the broad ſide, and in an inſtant overſet her, bottom upwards; by which accident the three men were drowned, but the two boys getting on the hatches, which waſhed from the veſſel, were drove out to ſea with the tide above a mile, but being providentially diſcovered by a ſloop coming in, they were both taken up alive.

PROVIDENCE, October 4.

Several veſſels employed in the whale fiſhery, from the induſtrious flouriſhing town of Warren, in this colony, have lately returned, having met with conſiderable ſucceſs. One veſſel, which went as far as the Weſtern Iſlands, brought home upwards of 310 barrels of oil. Some veſſels ſent from Newport, have alſo been tolerably ſucceſsful. This buſineſs, which ſeems to be carried on with ſpirit, bids fair to be of great utility to this government.

NEWPORT, October 6.

A letter from Caſtle Brew, at Annamaboa, on the coaſt of Africa, to a gentleman in this town, dated June 20, 1766, ſays, "Sir, you will be good enough to acquaint the merchants trading to this place, that the coaſt is very much infeſted with pirates, and that one, in particular, is a ſchooner, copper ſheathed, commanded by one Hide, has on board 34 men, and is extremely well fitted with ſwivels and ſmall arms. She cruiſes between the river Settra-Crue and Cape Three Points, and has taken between 12 and 14 ſhallops, one of which belonged to Governor Brew, and had on board 1200l. ſterling in goods, and 50 ounces of gold duſt: After taking from her a cable and anchor, for which they gave the maſter a receipt, they permitted him to go about his buſineſs. Theſe fellows neither murder, or force any into their ſervice; but on the contrary, one of their crew complaining that he was weary of that life, they put him on ſhore, and allowed him a ſufficiency to bear his expences to the firſt Engliſh factory."

Laſt Tueſday a very melancholy accident happened on Taylor's wharff. Mr. Joſhua Mowrey, aſſiſting in heaving down a brig, was ſtruck, on the back part of the head, by one of the bars of the capſtan (which, as it became neceſſary to right the veſſel, was ſuddenly let go by the other hands) by which, without a groan or ſtruggle, he was inſtantaneouſly killed upon the ſpot. He has left a ſorrowful widow, and ſeveral children.

PHILADELPHIA, October 16.

On Tueſday laſt the GENERAL ASSEMBLY of this Province met here, when JOSEPH GALLOWAY, Eſq; was choſen Speaker for the enſuing Year.

Extract of a Letter from London, July 3, 1766.

"You muſt have ſeen in the public Papers, the attempts HERACLIUS, a Georgian Prince, is making to throw off the Turkiſh Yoke, and the Succeſs he has met with; what I am going to relate, is the Steps he took towards it. The firſt neceſſary Thing was to inſtruct his Countrymen in the Uſe of Arms, and train them in the European Diſcipline; in order to this, he opened his Design to a young Man, about his own Age, of great good Senſe, and a Military Genius, Son to the richeſt Merchant in the Place. It was agreed between them, that JOSEPH ARMINE (for that is his Name) ſhould come to England, and endeavour to ſerve in our Armies, till he had rendered himſelf perfect enough in the Art of War, to be able to diſcipline his Countrymen; he therefore attempted to gain his Father's Leave (under the Pretence of Trade) to come in a genteel Manner, but the Father would by no Means hear of it; however, ſome time after, he ſent him with a Carravan to Perſia, to manage his Commerce there; ſoon after their Arrival, Armine ſcraped together what Money he could, and giving the Carravan the Slip, made his way to ſome of our Eaſt-India Settlements, intending to get on board ſome of our Ships, and, in the mean time, trying to learn our Language; there he was forced to remain, till he had no more Money left than was juſt ſufficient to bribe a Sailor, belonging to one of our Men of War, to conceal him on board till they were out at Sea, when he was to work as well as he could for his Paſſage. In this Manner he came to England, was landed at Wapping, without a Farthing in his Pocket, which obliged him, for preſent Support, to hire himſelf to fetch in Pots at an Ale-Houſe there. When the People of the Houſe aſked his Name, he told them it was, Cock-eyed Son of a Bitch, which it ſeems the Sailors uſed to call him, and he knew ſo little of Engliſh, that he really thought it a proper Name. At this Place he ſtayed till he could talk it pretty well. When he came to London, he, for a Livelihood, took up the honourable Trade of a Shoe-black, continually frequenting the Parade, and all Places where he could ſee the Soldiers exerciſe, and aſking them Queſtions about the Battles they had been in; but his conſtant Stand, as a Shoe-black, was at Northumberland Houſe; it happened while he ſtood there, one of the Grooms was attempting to break a fine Arabian Horſe in the Court-Yard; the Fellow did it ſo awkwardly, that Armine was out of Patience; he ran in, and told him, he would ruin the Horſe entirely, but if he would leave it to him, he would ſhow him how to deal with an Arabian Horſe; the Groom ſwore at, and abuſed him, but ſtill could make nothing of it himſelf, while Armine ſtood ſtamping, and making a hundred Contorſions. At laſt, a Crowd of Servants, who were gathered about, perſuaded the Groom to let him try (expecting the Diverſion of ſeeing him break his Neck) the Fellow, in a Paſſion, bid him get on, and be d---'d. Immediately Armine ran to the Horſe, vaulted into the Saddle at one Leap, and in two Minutes made the Creature perform what Paces he pleaſed. The Noiſe this occaſioned among the Servants, reached my Lord's Ear, who was ſoon told the Reaſon, and ſent for him in, when, after a good deal of Diſcourſe about Horſes, finding, by his Anſwers, he was a Man of Senſe, my Lord enquired what brought him to England, and how he came to be in ſo miſerable a Condition. Armine told him his whole Story, and named a Merchant in London, who his Father correſponded with, but to whom he would not make himſelf known, fearing that his Father, who he knew gueſſed he was come to England, might have writ to him to ſend him back again, if he could be found. On my Lord's ſending to this Merchant, he found it was really the Caſe; the Father had writ to him to find his Son, if poſſible, pay any Debts he had contracted, and give him Sixty Pounds, if he would come back; if not, to leave him to ſtarve. Armine refuſed to go; my Lord took him into his Houſe, clothed and entertained him at his Table, till the Time our Troops went abroad, when he recommended him to the Duke of Cumberland, with whom he ſerved a Campaign as a Volunteer, fighting always near the Duke. He afterwards ſerved two Campaigns under the King of Pruſſia. Prince Heraclius had then left his Country, and was ſerving under the ſame King; there they met, and, after two Campaigns, returned together to Georgia, where they rouſed the Spirits of their Countrymen, inſtructed them in the Art of War, and have had the Succeſs you muſt have ſeen. Armine is now the General of Heraclius's Army."

Since our laſt, Captain Oſman arrived here from Rotterdam, but laſt from Cowes, with Palatines. On the 8th of September he ſpoke a Snow, from South-Carolina for Yarmouth. On the Firſt Inſtant ſpoke a Sloop, from Rhode-Iſland for Jamaica, two Days out. And on the 3d he ſpoke a Brig, Captain Doubleday, from New-York, bound to Cork, out two Days.

Monday laſt Captain Kitchen arrived here from Jamaica; who, on the 31ſt of Auguſt, about 12 or 14 Leagues from the Weſt-End of that Iſland, met with an open Boat, with ſix Negroes, and a Mulattoe, on board; they had been drove out of Savanna la Mar, in the Hurricane, on the 16th of that Month, without any Proviſions or Water, having nothing to ſubſiſt on but two Hides; there were 8 in all, but one died the day before Captain Kitchen met with them, and the others were ſo far ſpent, that they were obliged to be hoiſted into the Ship, where, proper Care being taken of them, they recovered. On the 4th of October, in Lat. 37: 44, ſpoke a Sloop, from Coracoa for New-York, 31 Days out, all well.

Captain Haſelton, from Barbados, on the 21ſt of laſt Month, in Lat. 23: 45, Long. 64: 3, met with a violent Gale of Wind, or rather Hurricane, in which his Veſſel was laid on her Beam Ends for ſeveral Hours, and ſhifted her Hold, but the Wind afterwards abating, ſhe righted again; during the Gale his Pumps were choaked, and they were obliged to keep bailing, having a great deal of Water in the Hold; he loſt his Fore Yard, Foreſail, Foreſtayſail, Spritſail and Cabooſe, and received other Damage.

Arrived at Barbados. Captain Cook, from Philadelphia; Hobbs and Hunking, from Piſcataqua; and Fulford, from Marblehead.

Laſt Friday night the barn of Mr. Hugh Jones, of Lower Merion, was burnt down, with a great quantity of wheat, rye, buckwheat, &c. It is not known how it took fire, but it was with great difficulty his dwelling-houſe was preſerved.

From the LONDON CHRONICLE, Aug. 5.

On a late EVENT.

Shall Pitt, to ſacred Freedom late ſo dear,
Like ſhifting Pult'ney ſink into a Peer!
Shall Britain's boaſt, the Great, the Good, the Wiſe,
Quit his firm hold, and learn to temporize?

INFAMOUSLY falſe is the aſſertion, that all ranks of people conſider a Great Man's acceptance of the Peerage as a defection from principle, or a political apoſtacy; and ſtill more impudently untrue is that of his being exclaimed againſt with a bitterneſs of language, and warmth of indignation, far exceeding whatever was uttered or ſhewn againſt the late Earl of Bath, on his acceptance of that title.

Abſurd likewiſe is the repreſentation, that the Earl of Chatham (Pitt) has been jockeyed out of his popularity and importance; for they never did, nor ever can depend on any thing but his own manifeſted abilities and integrity. In whatever ſtation or aſſembly he appears, his words and actions muſt and will be made the grounds of public opinion concerning him: Therefore, while he does himſelf, and ſupports in others, what is right, he will deſervedly continue in full poſſeſſion of his popularity, which can never be determined by the artifices of any men; for on his own manifeſted conduct, and on that alone, his weight, importance, and character, will always depend.

When merit has paſſed through ſuch fiery trials, and every time came out with acknowledged greater purity, its character for perfection becomes naturally ſo well eſtabliſhed, nothing leſs than a proved demonſtrated tranſmutation of qualities, from precious to baſe, can effectually alter the opinions of mankind concerning it; and theſe the public muſt have, before they will ſuffer their high eſtimation of the merits of Lord Chatham (Pitt) to be in the leaſt degree lowered.

The emoluments of his office, which is far from being the firſt in profit (while little doubt can be entertained, that even the firſt might have been obtained by him) and the titles he has been honoured with (though they made no addition to the peerage, and are in ſome degree neceſſary for ſupporting the dignity of the employment, ſo high in rank, with which he is become inveſted) are as groundleſs as invidiouſly attributed to a ſpirit of ſelfiſhneſs, with which they ſay he is become inſpired. But why ſhould Mr. Pitt only be expected to act upon ſuch romantic principles, as to ſacrifice all private to public affection? Should a man's regard for his country be expected to extinguiſh that which is due from him to his family? or muſt he turn an inſenſible private monſter, in order to qualify him for becoming a patriot? Who will doubt that Mr. Pitt could have obtained all the poſts (with the power and emoluments which they would give to himſelf, and all the means which they furniſhed of gratification to others) that were poſſeſſed by Sir Robert Walpole and Mr. Pelham? and ſurely then his choice of a poſt which is greatly leſs lucrative than that which he poſſeſſed before, and was wiſhed and expected to accept again, and to which there are perhaps annexed the ſweeteſt means of gratifying others, of any belonging to the entire claſs of the Miniſters, with the example of his whole life, for making no unfair advantages; I ſay, with all theſe apparent circumſtances of uncommon ſelf-denial in his favour, can ſuch an imputation be allowed to have the leaſt weight with men of worth?

No, his ruling object is evidently the ſervice of his country as firm as his infirm ſtate of health will admit; and it being become out of his power to ſerve it greatly otherwiſe than by his councils, he has wiſely declined offices of toil and ſuitable emoluments, which are manifeſt proofs of his prudence and moderation, for which the diſcerning part of the public will honour and applaud him; and as for the malevolence of faction, prejudice and envy, it is beneath his regard.

A CANDID MAN.

Extract from a ſhort account of a late ſhort ADMINISTRATION.

THE late adminiſtration came into employment under the mediation of the Duke of Cumberland, on the 10th day of July, 1765, having laſted juſt one year and twenty days. In that ſpace of time,

The diſtractions of the Britiſh Empire were compoſed by the repeal of the American ſtamp-act.

But the conſtitutional ſuperiority of Great-Britain was preſerved by the act for ſecuring the dependence of the colonies.

Private houſes were relieved from the juriſdiction of the exciſe, by the repeal of the cyder tax.

The perſonal liberty of the ſubject was confirmed, by the reſolution for condemning the ſeizure of papers.

The trade of America was ſet free from injudicious and ruinous impoſitions.---Its revenue was improved, and ſettled upon a rational foundation.---Its commerce extended with foreign countries; while all the advantages were ſecured to Great Britain, by the act for the repealing certain duties, and encouraging, regulating, and ſecuring the trade of this kingom, and the Britiſh dominions in America.

Materials were provided and inſured to our manufactures.---The ſale of theſe manufactures was increaſed.---The African trade preſerved and extended.---The principles of the Act of navigation purſued, and the plan improved---And the trade for bullion rendered free, ſecure, and permanent, by the act for opening certain ports in Dominica and Jamaica.

-------- --------While the adminiſtration provided for the liberty and commerce of their country, as the true baſis of its power, they conſulted its intereſts, they aſſerted its honour abroad with temper and firmneſs; by making an advantageous treaty of commerce with Ruſſia; by obtaining a liquidation of the Canada bills, to the ſatisfaction of the proprietors; by reviving and raiſing from its aſhes the negotiation for the Manilla ranſom, which had been extinguiſhed and abandoned by their predeceſſors.

They treated their Sovereign with decency; with reverence. They diſcountenanced, and it is hoped, for ever aboliſhed the dangerous and unconſtitutional practice of removing military officers for their votes in parliament. They firmly adhered to thoſe friends of liberty, who had run all hazards in its cauſe, and provided for them in preference to every other claim.

With the Earl of B--- they had no perſonal connection; no correſpondence of councils. They neither courted him, nor perſecuted him. They practiſed no corruption; nor were they ever ſuſpected of it. They ſold no offices. They obtained no reverſions or penſions, either coming in or going out, for themſelves, their families, or their dependants.

COPENHAGEN, July 4.

THE King declared this day at Court, that he has concluded a marriage between the Princeſs Louiſa, his Majeſty's youngeſt ſiſter, who will be 17 years of age the 30th of January next, and Prince Charles of Heſſe Caſſel, Grand Maſter of the Artillery. It is reported, that in conſequence of this alliance, Prince Charles will be appointed Vice-Roy of Norway; but this is not yet ſufficiently authenticated.

Civita-Vecchia, June 23. They write from Corſica, that the reſult of the general aſſembly of the Malecontents was not ſo intereſting as was expected. The principal ſubject of their attention was to ſettle ſome things relative to the independency which they propoſe to eſtabliſh. It is added, that if the republick of Genoa will be ſatisfied with an annual tribute, and the title of Sovereign of Corſica, without attempting to exerciſe any act of ſovereignty, an accommodation may probably be affected; otherwiſe the Corſicans are determined to form themſelves into a republick, and elect General Paoli for their Doge, with a council of twelve ſenators.

Cadiz, June 25. A convoy is lately ſailed for different ports of Spaniſh America, compoſed of the Soledad man of war, with 2000 quintals of gunpowder, and other warlike ſtores, for Carthagena; the bark St. John, and five Swediſh merchant ſhips as tranſports, with the Queen's regiment of foot on board, which they are to land at Portobello and Panama, and likewiſe ſome warlike ſtores, the Portobelena regiſter ſhip for Carthagena, and ſome others, which are to be convoyed as far as the Canaries, by the Galicia man of war.

Edinburgh, July 19. The annual convention of royal burrows, the nobility and gentlemen of property and influence, in the different counties of Scotland, we are aſſured, will unanimouſly join in an application to parliament, next ſeſſion, for obtaining a bounty on the culture of hemp and flax in Great-Britain, and in other meaſures for promoting the linen manufactures, and removing the grievances under which they at preſent labour.

July 26. We are informed from Gleneruchie (in the weſt of Perthſhire) that on the 12th inſtant there fell a moſt prodigious quantity of rain and hail. A ſmall rivulet, in an hour's time, had ſo rapid an overflow, that it ſwept away two farm-houſes, the furniture, and every thing belonging to them. At the ſame time two bridges near Tynafour, in ſaid Gleneruchie, were carried down by the ſtream, which renders the road betwixt Taybridge and Dalnacardich impaſſable.

Haleſworth, July 17. Monday laſt we had a violent tempeſt in the afternoon, attended with a prodigious quantity of rain. Many people in the neighbourhood had all their hay carried away, by the floods; at Bramfield, three miles from hence, it is incredible to think of, but true, that the water roſe full nine feet perpendicular. In the ſame village the lightning took the bark off an oak as clean as if it had been taken off with hand, and left it ſtanding and tottering ſcarce able to bear its own weight; it was ſplit into myriads of pieces.

Newcaſtle, July 26. Thurſday died, at Benwell, John Hogg, 102 years old, who was a fiſherman above 70 years. What is very remarkable, he was never known to ſwear an oath.

LONDON.

July 22. The woman who cohabited with another woman, lately deceaſed, thirty-ſix years as her huſband, and kept a public houſe at Poplar, a great part of that time, but retired from thence laſt Saturday ſe'nnight, on account of the diſcovery made of her ſex, returned to that pariſh laſt Thurſday, accompanied by a gentleman to ſettle her affairs, in order to quit the buſineſs. She was dreſſed in a riding-habit, with a black hat and feather; ſo that her acquaintance could hardly believe her to be the ſame perſon, ſhe having generally appeared before in an old man's coat, woollen cap, blue apron, &c. Her behaviour now is that of an affable well bred woman, and agreeable in converſation. She ſupported the male character ſhe had aſſumed with reputation, as a fair dealer, and had ſerved every office in the pariſh, except that of church-warden, which ſhe was to have been next year, had not the diſcovery been made.

July 29. Prince Bielloſelſky, Brigadier of the armies of the Empreſs of Ruſſia, and appointed her Miniſter-Plenipotentiary to the Court of Saxony, arrived at Berlin the 10th of this month, and after being preſented to the King, continued his route to Dreſden. He is charged with a commiſſion to engage Prince Charles of Saxony, on certain conditions, to renounce his pretenſions on Courland; which, in caſe of ſucceſs, will give Duke Erneſt-John and his Heirs, a peaceable and ſolid poſſeſſion of that Dutchy.

On the 21ſt inſt. the moſt tremendous ſtorm of thunder and lightning happened at Skipton, in Craven, that was ever in the memory of the oldeſt man there: The lightning ſtruck the church ſteeple, beat off the weather-cock, and ſeveral of the pinacles, and has greatly rent and damaged the whole ſteeple. The ſame day, and much about the ſame time, at a place called Shire-Oakes, near Skipton, a mare and foal were killed, the former of which was divided and torn by the lightning in a dreadful and almoſt incredible manner, being nearly ſeparated into two parts.

July 31. They write from Edinburgh, that conſiderable damage has been done about Perth, and parts adjacent, by the late extraordinary inundations of the river Tay.

Auguſt 2. We hear that Mr. Le Groſs, who went to Portſmouth, to embark as Conſul to Algiers, was ſuddenly ſeized with madneſs, and is coming to town; and that Mr. Sampſon is appointed in his room, who went down to Portſmouth immediately, in order to embark.

Letters from Venice, dated July 7, ſay, "The Sieur Valſamaki, Conſul of this Republick at Patraſſo, in the Morea, will ſoon arrive here from Conſtantinople, being ſent home by order of the Grand Seignor. This man having obtained leave of the Senate to go to Conſtantinople, under a pretence of ſome domeſtick affairs, as ſoon as he arrived there, preſented to the Grand Seignor, as he was going to Moſque, a memorial, wherein he offered to deliver up to him the iſland of Corfou (which has been the property of the Republic ever ſince the end of the 14th century) and alſo to turn Mahometan, if his Highneſs would make him Governor of the Morea; but the Grand Seignor, equally deteſting the traitor and the treaſon, ordered him immediately to be arreſted, and delivered to our Ambaſſador, in order to be ſent home, and puniſhed as he deſerves."

To BARLOW TRECOTHICK, Eſq; and the Committee of Merchants, trading to North-America.

New-Brunſwick, in New-Jerſey, June 18, 1766.

THIS acknowledges the receipt of your much eſteemed favours of the 28th of February, and 18th of March, which ſeverally afforded us the higheſt pleaſure; the former as preſaging, and the latter confirming the repeal of the unhappy ſtamp-act.

As that act, had it been inforced, muſt have neceſſarily deprived his Majeſty's ſubjects in North America, of their moſt invaluable privileges; at the ſame time that it impoſed burdens grievous, and, as we apprehend, unconſtitutional: Thence the account of its being repealed could not fail of diffuſing univerſal joy throughout the continent; but in our expreſſions of it, we have, and believe people generally have, been attentive to thoſe prudent monitions which you were ſo kind as to ſuggeſt.

The various difficulties, and that relentleſs oppoſition which the friends of liberty had to encounter, in bringing about this happy event, fill our minds with a high ſenſe of their eminent, inflexible virtues.

In regard to the riots or tumults which have appeared, at times, in ſome particular places among the colonies, they were the ſallies of leſs conſiderate men. Hiſtory furniſhes proof, that even the beſt regulated ſtates have not been, at all times, able to reſtrain ſuch; far leſs could it be expected in an infant country; hence we are inclined to think, that theſe would not have preponderated ſo much in England, had they not been greatly exaggerated, and, probably, miſrepreſented there by mercenary, or otherwiſe ill-affected perſons; for, we hope, the conduct of the more thinking men among us ſtood unexceptionable.

We conceived the impoſition to be unconſtitutional, and the diſtreſſes on our trade to be highly impolitick. We ſaw the cooperation of theſe meaſures, if perſiſted in, muſt inevitably iſſue in the ruin of the colonies, and that England would ſenſibly feel the direful effects.

The then adminiſtration ſeemed regardleſs of every remonſtrance from that quarter, whence we were left to pour out our complaints to private friends on your ſide, and urge their aid, in warding off the impending evil.

The reſolution of our merchants was a natural meaſure, to rouze the efforts of the mercantile intereſt in England; and it was a prudent meaſure to reſtrain the increaſe of our debts, while the diſtreſſes on trade diſabled us even from diſcharging the arrears.

Had not a repeal of the ſtamp-act (accompanied with a proſpect of the extenſion of trade) taken place, commerce muſt have ceaſed here, agriculture, manufacture, and œconomy, become the ſole object of the attention and purſuit of thoſe colonies.

We can ſafely aver, that his Majeſty has no ſubjects more loyal than thoſe in North-America; and we conceive, that upon the moſt obvious principles of true policy, the numerous inhabitants of theſe colonies may be rendered eaſy and happy, while, at the the ſame time, their commerce and induſtry may be led in ſuch a channel, as to become a grand ſource of wealth to the mother country.

We flatter ourſelves, that the diſcuſſion of that important point before the parliament, has thrown in ſuch a light upon the minds of the people of Great-Britain, that men in power will ſee, and be perſuaded, that fettering the trade of America, and overburthening its inhabitants, is, in fact, cropping the flowers, and diſtreſſing the bees of their own hive; that, on the other hand, keeping up an attention to the proſperity of the colonies, and the extenſion of their commerce, as it is the moſt natural, muſt prove the moſt efficacious means of promoting the beſt intereſt of Great-Britain.

We cannot take our leave, without expreſſing our moſt affectionate loyalty to his preſent Majeſty, our gratitude to his Miniſters, to the majority of parliament, to Mr. Pttt, that eminent friend of liberty, and to you, gentlemen, the committee of North-American merchants, for your unwearied endeavours on this important occaſion. And we truſt that the behaviour of the colonies will always fully juſtify what you were ſo kind as to aſſert in their behalf.

(Signed by fourteen principal merchants.)

The Repreſentatives, for the Town of Boſton, are directed by the Inhabitants to uſe their Influence when the General Aſſembly meets, that the Sufferers on the 26th of Auguſt 1765, have all their Damages made good.

Extract of a Letter from London, Auguſt 12, 1766.

"By the Papers you'll find Mr. PITT, now Earl of Chatham, has been placed at the Head of Affairs, and has had the Nomination of moſt of the great Officers of State; our Affairs will take a happy Turn, it is hoped:---But as he has not been able to put every Perſon into a Poſt, that thinks himſelf qualified for it, am afraid the Spirit of Oppoſition will take Riſe, and endeavour to clog the Wheels of Government, not ſo much on Account of Government itſelf, as to prevent the Earl of Chatham ſhining forth with that Luſtre which his ſuperior Talents promiſes.----Were the Good of the Community the only Object of their Purſuits, nothing I think could ſtand before them---but where Places, high Honours, and Power, with all their Attendants, ſeem to be their Objects, the very Name of Patriot ſeems only to be a mere ſtalking Horſe, behind which they ſhelter themſelves in the Purſuit of their Game."

By an Act of the last Session of Parliament, the Oath of Abjuration is altered in the following Form, which the County Court CLERKS are desired to take Notice of, viz.

I A. B. do truly and sincerely acknowledge, profess, testify, and declare, in my Conscience, before God and the World, That our Sovereign Lord King George is lawful and rightful King of this Realm, and all other his Majesty's Dominions and Countries thereunto belonging. And I do solemnly and sincerely declare, that I do believe, in my Conscience, that not any of the Descendants of the Person who pretended to be Prince of Wales, during the Life of the late King James the Second, and, since his Decease, pretended to be, and took upon himself the Style and Title of, King of England, by the Name of James the Third, or of Scotland, by the Name of James the Eighth, or the Style and Title of King of Great-Britain, hath any Right or Title whatsoever to the Crown of this Realm, or any other the Dominions thereunto belonging: And I do renounce, refuse, and abjure, any Allegiance or Obedience to any of them. And I do swear, that I will bear Faith and true Allegiance to his Majesty King George, and him will defend to the utmost of my Power, against all traiterous Conspiracies and Attempts whatsoever, which shall be made against his Person, Crown, or Dignity. And I will do my utmost Endeavour to disclose and make known to his Majesty, and his Successors, all Treasons and Traiterous Conspiracies which I shall know to be against him, or any of them. And I do faithfully promise, to the utmost of my Power, to support, maintain, and defend, the Succession of the Crown, against the Descendants of the said James, and against all other Persons whatsoever, which Succession, by an Act, intituled, An Act for the further Limitation of the Crown, and better securing the Rights and Liberties of the Subject, is and stands limited to the Princess Sophia, Electoress and Dutchess Dowager of Hanover, and the Heirs of her Body, being Protestants. And all these Things I do plainly and sincerely acknowledge and swear, according to these express Words by me spoken, and according to the plain common Sense and Understanding of the same Words, without any Equivocation, mental Evasion, or secret Reservation whatsoever. And I do make this Recognition, Acknowledgment, Abjuration, Renounciation, and Promise, heartily, willingly, and truly, upon the true Faith of a Christian.

BY THE HONOURABLE

JOHN PENN, Esquire,

Lieutenant-Governor, and Commander in Chief of the Province of Pennsylvania, and Counties of New-Castle, Kent and Sussex, on Delaware,

A PROCLAMATION.

WHEREAS I have received Information, that many ill-disposed Persons, in express Disobedience to His Majesty's Proclamation, and Royal Instructions, and regardless of the Rights of the Proprietaries, or the Indians in Alliance with the English, have, without any Licence or Authority, seated themselves upon Lands within this Province, not yet purchased of the Natives: AND WHEREAS the making such Settlements doth greatly tend to irritate the Indians, and may again involve us in a War with them, if not put an immediate Stop to: AND WHEREAS I have lately received His Majesty's positive Commands to suppress such unwarrantable Proceedings, and to put an End to these, and all other the like Encroachments for the future: I HAVE therefore thought fit, with the Advice of the Council, to issue this Proclamation, hereby strictly enjoining and requiring, in His Majesty's Name, all Persons whatsoever, who have made any such Settlements within this Province, immediately to evacuate and abandon them, as they will answer the contrary at their Peril. AND I do hereby prohibit all His Majesty's Subjects, of this or any other Province or Colony, from making any Settlements, or taking any Possession of Lands, by marking Trees, or otherwise, beyond the Limits of the last Indian Purchase within this Province, upon Pain of the severest Penalties of the Law, and of being excluded from the Privilege of securing such Settlements, should the Lands, where they shall be made, be hereafter purchased of the Indians. AND WHEREAS it has been reported that a certain Frederick Stump, a German, settled beyond the Indian Purchase, near to Fort-Augusta, had my Warrant or Authority for making such Settlement; I do hereby declare, that the said Report is utterly false and groundless, and that neither the said Stump, nor any other Person, ever had the least Encouragement from me to settle on any Lands unpurchased of the Indians; but that, on the contrary, I have constantly denied every Application of that Kind.

GIVEN under my Hand, and the Great Seal of the said Province, at Philadelphia, the Twenty-third Day of September, in the Year of our Lord One Thousand Seven Hundred and Sixty-six, and in the Sixth Year of his Majesty's Reign.

This is to give Notice to the PUBLIC,

THAT, after a long Delay, the Subscriber has at last obtained from the Proprietaries Land-Office, an indisputable Deed, dated September 4, 1766, to that Land on Susquehannah, where the new Ferry, from Lancaster over said River, to York and Cumberland Counties, is intended to be established, Being therefore no longer under Apprehension of any One's claiming such Land; he is thereby encouraged now to assure all Friends and Promoters of the public Good, that he shall use his best Endeavours, Diligence and Care, to bring this new Ferry to such a complete State, that all Persons who will be pleased to favour him with their Custom, shall meet with good Entertainment, and the best Dispatch in their Journey, at the most reasonable Rates, viz. for one Waggon Three Shillings; for a Man and Horse Four-pence; and for each Person Two-pence. And as no better or more convenient Place can be found on all Susquehannah for a Ferry, on account of the narrow Stream, and convenant deep Water, every one will experience this to be the best Ferry in that Part of the Country. And whereas it frequently happens, that Grain, or other Goods, are agreed for to be carried no farther than just to the East Side of Susquehannah River, and it has been found that hitherto no body has been there to receive such Goods for the Owners, and to take proper Care of them, so that they often have lain there a considerable Time without any Inspection, and received a great deal of Damage; the Subscriber therefore intends to erect there a good Store-house, where, for a small Reward, every thing that is delivered into it, shall be taken Care of in the best Manner, till it is fetcht away. These advantageous Proposals will, it is hoped, incline all Friends and Well-wishers to the public Good, to encourage and assist me in my Undertaking, so as to bring the same speedily to Perfection.

* SWEATNAM BURN.

Extract from An Enquiry into the CONDUCT of a late Right Honourable COMMONER.

WE come now to the laſt Negotiation; a Negotiation inſtituted by the Favourite, and carried on by the noble Lawyer lately removed from his own department to another high office in the ſtate. The error laſt year had been in conſulting Lord Temple firſt. This year another method was taken; Mr. Pitt was firſt applied to; and after that gentleman had had a conference firſt with the late Lord Chancellor, and then with His M. Lord Temple was ſent for, who directly after his coming to town, waited on His M. at Richmond. Next day (July 16, 1766) his Lordſhip received a very affectionate letter from Mr. Pitt, then at North-End, Hampſtead, deſiring to ſee his Lordſhip there, as his health would not permit him to come to town. His Lordſhip went, and Mr. Pitt acquainted him, that His M. had been graciouſly pleaſed to ſend for him to form an adminiſtration; and as he thought his Lordſhip "indiſpenſable," he deſired His M. to ſend for him, and to put him at the head of the Treaſury; and that he himſelf would take the poſt of Privy Seal.

The Commoner then produced a liſt of ſeveral perſons, which he ſaid he had fixed upon to go in with his Lordſhip; and which, he added, was not to be altered. Lord Temple ſaid, that he had had the honour of a conference with His M. at Richmond the evening before, and that he did not underſtand from what paſſed between them, that Mr. Pitt was to be abſolute Maſter, and to form every part of the adminiſtration; if he had, he would not have given himſelf the trouble of coming to Mr. Pitt upon that ſubject, being determined to come in upon an equality with Mr. Pitt, in caſe he was to occupy the moſt reſponſible place under the government. And as Mr. Pitt had choſen only a Side-Place, without any reſponſibility annexed to it, he ſhould inſiſt upon ſome of his friends being in the Cabinet Offices with him, and in whom he could confide; which he thought Mr. Pitt could have no objection to, as he muſt be ſenſible he could not come in with honour, unleſs he had ſuch nomination; nor did he deſire, but that Mr. Pitt ſhould have his ſhare of the nomination of his friends, and his Lordſhip added, that he made a ſacrifice of his brother Mr. George Grenville, who, notwithſtanding his being entirely out of place, and excluded from all connection with the intended ſyſtem, would, nevertheleſs, ſupport the meaſures of their adminiſtration; that it was his idea to conciliate all parties, which was the ground that had made Mr. Pitt's former adminiſtration ſo reſpectable and glorious, and to form upon the ſolid baſis of Union, an able and reſponſible adminiſtration, to brace the relaxed ſinews of government, retrieve the honour of the crown, and purſue the permanent intereſt of the Public. But that if Mr. Pitt inſiſted upon a ſuperior dictation, and did not chuſe to join in a plan deſigned for the reſtoration of that Union, which at no time was ever ſo neceſſary, he deſired the conference might be broke off, and that Mr. Pitt would give himſelf no further trouble about him, for that he would not ſubmit to the propoſed conditions.

Mr. Pitt, however, inſiſted upon continuing the conference; and aſked, who thoſe perſons were whom his Lordſhip intended for ſome of the cabinet employments? His Lordſhip anſwered, that one in particular, was a noble Lord, of approved character, and known abilities, who had laſt year refuſed the very office now offered to him [Lord Temple] though preſſed to it in the ſtrongeſt manner, by the Duke of Cumberland, and the Duke of Newcaſtle; and who, being their common friend, he did not doubt Mr. Pitt himſelf had in contemplation. This worthy and reſpectable perſon was Lord Lyttleton. At the concluſion of this ſentence, Mr. Pitt ſaid, Good God, how can you compare him to the Duke of Grafton, Lord Shelburne, and Mr. Conway? Beſides, ſaid he, I have taken the privy ſeal, and he cannot have that. Lord Temple then mentioned the poſt of Lord Preſident; upon which Mr. Pitt ſaid, that could not be, for he had engaged the precedency; but, ſays he, Lord Lyttleton may have a penſion. To which Lord Temple immediately anſwered, that would never do; nor would he ſtain the bud of his adminiſtration with an accumulation of penſions. It is true, Mr. Pitt vouchſafed to permit the noble Lord to nominate his own board; but at the ſame time inſiſted, that if two perſons of that board (Thomas Townſhend, and George Onſlow, Eſquires) were turned out, they ſhould have a compenſation, i. e. Penſions.

Mr. Pitt next aſked, what perſon his Lordſhip had in his thoughts for Secretary of State? His Lordſhip anſwered, Lord Gower, a man of great abilities, and whom he knew to be equal to any Mr. Pitt had named, and of much greater alliance; and in whom he meant and hoped to unite and conciliate a great and powerful party, in order to widen and ſtrengthen the bottom of his adminiſtration, and to vacate even the idea of oppoſition; thereby to reſtore unanimity in parliament, and confine every good man's attention to the real objects of his country's welfare. And his Lordſhip added, that he had never imparted his deſign to Lord Gower, nor did he know whether that noble Lord would accept of it *, but mentioned it now, only as a comprehenſive meaſure, to attain the great end he wiſhed, of reſtoring unanimity by a reconciliation of parties, that the buſineſs of the nation might go on without interruption, and become the only buſineſs of parliament. But Mr. Pitt rejected this propoſal, evidently healing, as it appeared, by ſaying, that he had determined Mr. Conway ſhould ſtay in his preſent office, and that he had Lord Shelburne to propoſe for the other office, then held by the Duke of Richmond; ſo that there remained no room for Lord Gower. This Lord Temple ſaid, was coming to his firſt propoſition of being ſole and abſolute dictator, to which no conſideration ſhould ever induce him to ſubmit. And therefore he inſiſted upon ending the conference; which he did with ſaying, That if he had been firſt called upon by the K. he ſhould have conſulted Mr. Pitt's honour, with regard to the arrangement of miniſters, and have given him an equal ſhare in the nomination; and that he thought himſelf ill treated by Mr. Pitt, in his not obſerving the like conduct.

* Lord Temple afterwards wrote to Lord Gower, to excuſe the mention he had made of his name.

CIVITA VECCHIA, July 14.

THE Pope's dominions experience a greater ſcarcity of corn this year than the two preceding ones; to remedy which, it is agreed to employ part of the treaſure amaſſed by Sixtus V. to buy up large quantities of corn, for which ſeveral commiſſions are already ſent to Dantzick and England. The corn which was bought up at Leghorn for the ſupply of the city of Rome, is already arrived there; and all merchants are forbid to trade in corn, except thoſe who ſhall be properly authoriſed ſo to do, by the congregation of cardinals.

The Prior of the Iriſh Dominicans, and the Rectors of the three colleges of Engliſh, Iriſh, and Scotch Jeſuits, eſtabliſhed at Rome, have been baniſhed; the firſt to this city, and the others to different colleges out of the capital, for paying honours appropriated to royalty, to Edward Stuart.

Conſtantinople, July 1. Since the 15th or 16th of laſt month, we have not felt any ſhocks of an earthquake; and, thanks to Heaven, we enjoy at preſent perfect tranquility. But the damages which the inhabitants of this city have ſuſtained by the late unhappy cataſtrophe, are exceſſive, and will be long felt, notwithſtanding all the ſuccours which the generoſity and compaſſion of the grand Seignor have offered them on this calamitous occaſion. Beſides the large ſums of money which he diſtributed, he hath taken extraordinary care that order ſhould be preſerved, as much as it was poſſible to be in ſo general a conſternation and confuſion. The ruins have been cleared away with admirable expedition; nor has leſs activity been uſed, and is ſtill exerted, in repairing the moſques, ramparts, baths, aqueducts, publick ſchools, and other edifices.

Leghorn, July 14. According to our laſt advices from Corſica, the male-contents have requeſted of the court of Rome, that the convent of regular Monks, and two other communities which are in the interior part of the kingdom, being compoſed of foreigners, and principally Genoeſe, may be recalled, and that national or Roman monks may be ſubſtituted in their room. But we are aſſured that his holineſs, ſo far from complying with the demand of the Paoliſts, hath threatened them that they ſhall not, for the future, enjoy the protection of the Holy See.

The ravage committed by the ſmall pox, in this iſland, is extraordinary. In the city of Corte, and other places, conſiſting together of only 1300 families, there have died lately of this diſtemper 327 children. The Sieur Stefanopoli, ſurgeon, hath juſt introduced inoculation, and with ſo good ſucceſs, that of 95 children inoculated, only one died. He hath communicated this ſecret to the other phyſicians, in recompence for which the government hath granted him an annual penſion of 50 crowns for life.

Leghorn, July 20. We learn from Corſica, that there is a great miſunderſtanding between the malecontents and the French troops. The Marquis de Marbœuf has formed a line, in order to prevent a communication with the Corſican troops, and has iſſued orders to the natives of the Iſland to carry no flag on board any of their veſſels, except that of Genoa, in conſequence of which laſt ſtep, ſeveral ſhips have been ſeized. On the other hand, Paoli was taking all meaſures of defence, and had ordered four feluccas, and three tartans, to be built for a ſecret expedition.

Hanover, Auguſt 1. They write from Halle, that the Pruſſian and Saxon commiſſaries are retired from thence, after ſeveral vain attempts to ſettle a treaty of commerce between their reſpective courts.

LONDON.

Auguſt 4. Several magnificent ſuits of cloaths are now making up for her Royal Highneſs Princeſs Louiſa, which are to be entirely of Britiſh manufacture. And it is now ſaid to be certain, that her approaching nuptials with the Prince of Orange, will be celebrated in London.

We hear, that the Iſle of Man will have the liberty to ſend four members to parliament, and the biſhop of the iſland to have a ſeat in the houſe of peers; when, at the ſame time, the laws and cuſtoms will be the ſame as in England, and trade will be greatly encouraged, by ſettling two manufactories there, one at Douglaſs, and the other at Peel-Town, next ſeſſion of parliament.

Auguſt 5. Thurſday died at his houſe near Hampſtead, the Rev. Mr. Southcoat, remarkable for having a leg of mutton every night for his ſupper during a courſe of 40 years, ſmoaking ten pipes as conſtantly, and drinking three bottles of port.

Auguſt 9. Inoculation for the Small-pox has become ſo common, and withal ſo ſucceſsful, by the practitioners in Eſſex, that the moſt timorous venture to undergo the operation; an extraordinary inſtance of the truth of this will appear in the following article: Mr. Bright, of Maldon, and brother to the late corpulent Mr. Bright, being greatly terrified of having the ſmall-pox, from his bulk, reſolved, on ſeeing ſo great a number recover from that diſorder, to undergo the operation; and accordingly, after the uſual preparation, was inoculated, and laſt week happily recovered, with only the loſs of as much fleſh, when he came to put on his uſual waiſtcoat, as buttoned up a middle-ſized man in it with him; however, he is in full ſpirits, and likely to continue ſo.

Mr. Alderman Trecothick, we are well aſſured, intends to ſtand candidate for the city of London, at the next general election.

We have already had (ſays a political writer) a happy earneſt given us of the intended patriotiſm of future meaſures, by finding that the great are not now merely quarrelling for places and penſions; for we find that the noble Earl, who has been ſo long, and ſo ſtrenuous in the oppoſition, will ſupport the future adminiſtration, without deſiring any poſt whatever: A noble example, worthy of every commendation! We find too, that an able commoner, if report ſays true, will relinquiſh the moſt lucrative poſt of any, and at the ſame time the moſt indolent one, in order to ſerve his country in one of much leſs profit, and a much more buſy ſcene, wherein his abilities are wanted. What though party malice has branded him with the title of weather-cock! we know that no man who loved his country could, during the late ſquabbles, remain long attached to any one ſide, without forfeiting his own judgment and conſcience. What the world idly judged to be the effect of fickleneſs, proceeded rather from ſpirit and independance. Be it remembered, that he was the only Man who ſtood firm in defence of Mr. Pitt after his reſignation, when the mouths of all the ungenerous were open againſt him. The man who is thus grateful where he ought, and does not deſert his friends in diſgrace, will, in courſe, be firm to men and meaſures, but not to parties and faction.

One day laſt week a wheat field, conſiſting of 17 acres, belonging to Farmer King, of Kingſton in Surry, was obſerved on ſtrict examination to have no grains of corn in the ears, on which it was cut down for ſtraw: It has been ſhewn at Kingſton and other places, and is eſteemed a great phænomenon of nature.

One day laſt week at Chicheſter, 18 miles from Portſmouth, ſome people belonging to a farmer made up a large hay-rick: It is common to leave a vacancy in the center, to let out the heat; this was put up too ſoon. One of the hay-makers happened to go to ſleep on the rick, the night before it was finiſhed, and (in his ſleep it is ſuppoſed) tumbled into the hole, head foremoſt. The man was miſſing that night, and ſeveral days, when a boy going up on the rick, ſaw the man with his heels upwards. On alarming the people, they got ropes to pull him out, but his legs were burnt off the body, his head and arms likewiſe ſeparated by the heat of the hay; ſo that he was taken out by piece-meal.

The papers are full of the moſt ſevere and cutting reflections upon the late great commoner, who ſeems now entirely to have loſt his popularity, and is, by the writers, ſuppoſed only to have aſſumed the appearance of patriotiſm and diſintereſtedneſs, to enhance his price, which having raiſed as high as he could expect to advance it, he does as many other patriots have done before him, makes his own market, leaves his country to ſhift for itſelf, and joins the croud of courtiers. He is upbraided for having deceived Mr. Pynſent, who left him his eſtate upon a ſuppoſition of his inflexible adherence to his country's intereſt, and to put him above the neceſſity of dependance on a court. His conduct for many years paſt is ſcrutinized and cenſured in numerous inſtances. He is adviſed to reſtore the gold boxes preſented him by ſeveral corporations, for his unſhaken integrity.---And beſides theſe, abundance of ludicrous and ſarcaſtical things are continually coming out againſt him.

A few pieces are alſo publiſhed in his vindication, but do no great credit to him nor the authors. It is ſaid he will ſtill as zealouſly as ever endeavour to promote the true intereſt of his country, and that his tranſlation has made no alteration to his principles.---But ſuppoſing his penſions and dependance on the court, ſhould have no influence upon his conduct, yet his promotion has entirely put an end to his influence in the houſe of commons, where his ſervice was the moſt material and important.

Letters from Warſaw mention an inſurrection amongſt the people in that city, who refuſe to take the coin at the values lately fixed by the board of treaſury.

We hear that ſome new American governors will be appointed, as ſoon as the new miniſtry is finally ſettled.

Auguſt 12. Some letters from Leghorn mention, that advice was received there of a large body of Circaſſians, whoſe country is ſubject to the Grand Seignor, having joined the forces of Prince Heraclius of Georgia.

The office of Privy-ſeal for Scotland is not yet diſpoſed of, and it is now ſaid it will be given to the Earl of March.

Several meſſages were ſent to prevent a late extraordinary publication, but no terms would be liſtened to.

It is now ſaid, that the laſt hand has been put to the marriage treaty between his Serene Highneſs the Prince of Orange and her Royal Highneſs the Princeſs Louiſa-Anne, and that the ceremony will be performed at the Dutch Chapel at St. James's, the beginning of October.

Letters from the Hague adviſe, that the houſhold of her Royal Highneſs Princeſs Louiſa of England, intended conſort to the Prince Stadtholder, has already been formed there.

They write from Briſtol, that ſome bags of wild cotton had juſt been imported there from Penſacola, which was judged nothing inferior to the beſt Jamaica.

It is ſaid that the miniſters of two foreign powers have of late been obſerved to hold frequent conferences together, at the breaking up of which, diſpatches were always ſent off to their reſpective courts.

It is reported that our marine forces will ſoon be augmented, and put under ſome new regulations.

Galway, Auguſt 11. By a young gentleman who arrived here on Saturday from Limerick, we have the following extraordinary account.

"That on Friday morning laſt one of the ſheriffs of this town, who had eſcorted thither the three convicts mentioned in our laſt, very narrowly eſcaped being murdered in the goal of that city by one of ſaid convicts, a moſt notorious and incorrigible Miſcreant, called William Daly, who, without any manner of provocation, with a razor, which he had till then concealed, attempted to cut the ſheriff's throat as he was ſpeaking to another of the convicts, who pretended, purpoſely it is imagined, to have ſomewhat to impart to him, but he, by a providential motion of his head at that inſtant, received the ſtroke which was otherwiſe deſigned, on his cheek, whereby, however, he was ſo deſperately wounded, as to be obliged to ſuſpend for ſome time his return home. This atrocious attempt of the villain is the more extraordinary and unaccountable, as the ſheriff was remarkably civil and indulgent to him and the other priſoners on the journey to Limerick, which, added to the many vindictive declarations made by him here, and on the road, againſt ſome gentlemen of this town and county, at large, ſhews what kind of man he muſt be, and how unworthy of that gracious pardon, which ſo lately reſcued him from the gallows.

Limerick, Auguſt 14. Laſt week John Hagarty had a large cancerous tumour, pendulous from the thigh, and which had been growing for 13 years, extirpated; as had Michael M'Namara, a ſimilar one, on the inſide of the arm, taken off, and both continue in a fair way of recovery. Mary Irwin was alſo tapped for a dropſy, this being her 20*th time; ſhe had, in the courſe of* 13 months, 260 quarts of water drawn off.

DUBLIN, Auguſt 19.

The following is a part of a letter from a gentleman in the country, to his friend in town.

---"As to public affairs, they give me little concern; but whether being thirty miles from town removes me ſo far from popular prejudices, or confirms me in my own, I leave to you. I cannot ſee why Lord C----m ſhould be this moment a worſe man than Mr. P--tt, nor can I find more ſimilitude between Lord C---m and Lord B--h, than Fluellin in Henry the 5*th finds between Macedon and Monmouth; "there is a river in Macedon, and there is a river in Monmouth." I know not much of Lord B--h's hiſtory; I know he was an angry opponent when a commoner, and nobody when a peer; but I never heard that he was ever a great miniſter, that he had directed a war with extraordinary talents and ſucceſs, or rectified the blunders of an ignorant miniſtry in peace, or that he accepted the honours of a crown as the reward of faithful ſervice, when infirmity and years rendered him incapable of the fatigue of buſineſs in the lower houſe. If Lord C---m was ſtill Mr. P--tt, he could not, in the ordinary courſe of nature, retain his vigour longer than five or ſix years; rich fruits decay the ſooneſt: I confeſs I think it more diſcreet to nod upon a woolpack, than exhibit the decay of nature in the ſame ſcene where its ſtrength and vigour were once ſo conſpicuous.*

"A man cannot mix with any company, but ſome one will aſſert we muſt have a war. Though we are aſſured our enemies were heartily tired of the laſt, yet no ſooner was peace proclaimed, but we were alarmed with their power, and that we ſhould be involved in immediate trouble. This muſt be contrary to all probability. Whatever may be their inclination, we muſt think it unſuitable to their condition. Their finances were exhauſted; and whatever recourſes they might have, yet they could not be ſo ample as to put their ſtate in a plight to oppoſe the power of Great-Britain ſo ſuddenly as we were made to believe: I ſpeak of the French. A great recruit was neceſſary of ſhips, and magazines of all ſorts to equip them, which will take up ſome time to procure before they can face us. Beſides, France is diſturbed internally: Its parliaments begin to ſtrut, and make a ſhew of liberty. In many inſtances they have oppoſed the power of the King; and whilſt he talks of his commands and his will, they as pertinently talk of the Laws, and are very loth to ſubmit to commands. Spain is equally convulſed within, and ſo far from being in a ſtate to vex us, would gladly be quiet herſelf."

KINGSTON (in JAMAICA) September 13.

The high Wind, which happened on Friday and Saturday, the 15th and 16th of Auguſt, and did conſiderable Damage to the Shipping of this Iſland, was not ſo terrible in its Conſequences as at Dominica and Martinico, as it did not happen here till two Days after, in which Time the Wind had greatly abated of its Fury.

QUEBEC, September 22.

On Tueſday laſt, about Noon, arrived here the Honourable GUY CARLETON, Eſq; Lieutenant-Governor and Commander in Chief of this Province, and Brigadier-General of His Majeſty's Forces.-----He was met at Cape-Rogue by His Majeſty's Council, the Civil Officers of Government, the Officers of the Regiments quartered here, and many Citizens, who eſcorted him to Town: On his Arrival within the Gates, he was ſaluted by the Cannon of the Garriſon.

BOSTON, October 16.

We hear from Stoughton, that on Monday the 6th, a barn, almoſt full of hay and grain, was ſtruck with the lightning, and ſoon conſumed by the fire, notwithſtanding the utmoſt efforts of the people to extinguiſh it. The owner and his ſon were in the barn at the time when it was ſtruck, and providentially were ſo little hurt, that they got out into the yard before the fire reached them.

We hear that in the night of the 5th inſtant, a ſchooner belonging to Piſcataqua, from the Weſt-Indies, in ballaſt, was caſt away on Elizabeth-Iſland, to the ſouthward of Tarpaulin Cove. The people ſaved, with the rigging and ſails.

Captain Reed, in a ſchooner loaded with melaſſes, from Monto Chriſti, bound to Marblehead, was likewiſe caſt away at Muſketeck, between Nantucket and the Vineyard, the people ſaved, moſt of the cargoe loſt.

We hear, that a few days ago, a perſon had both his eyes put out, by pouring ſome cold lyes into a kettle to prevent the hot lyes from flowing over, when fluxing to make pot-aſh.

October 20. Wedneſday laſt his Excellency was pleaſed to declare in Council, that it was his Intention that the General Court ſhould meet at the Time it ſtands prorogued to, being the Twenty-ninth of the preſent October, that they may have an Opportunity to give an Anſwer to the Recommendation of His Majeſty, at the Requeſt of the Houſe of Commons, which was laid before the Court laſt Seſſion.

Yeſterday a Child was baptized in one of the Churches in Town, by the Name of WILKES.----No. XLV, was curiouſly done with Ribbons, on the Child's Breaſt.

As an Inſtance of the plenty there is like to be of Indian Corn this Year, three Ears of which, the produce of one Curnel was lately gathered off the Farm of John Pulmer, Eſq; in Rocheſter, which produced 1650 Curnels. New-Hamp.

HARTFORD, October 13.

We hear from Hartwood (in the province of Maſſachuſetts) that laſt week they had a conſiderable fall of ſnow in that town.

NEWPORT, October 20.

A Gentleman at South-Kingston was robbed of near 200 Dollars, one Night last Week, in the following Manner: The Money was in his Saddle-Bags, on his Horse, which he left at the Door of a Tavern, and went into the House, where he staid a few Minutes; during which Time, his Bags were cut open, and the Money taken away. We hear he has detected the Thieves, and recovered most of the Money.

NEW-YORK, October 23.

Last Week was held at Newark, for the County of Essex, in the Province of New-Jersey, before the Honourable Frederick Smyth, Esq; a Court of Oyer and Terminer and General Goal Delivery, when two Persons were convicted for Horse-stealing, and received Sentence of Death, viz.

James M'Carty, a Native of Ireland, about 21 Years old; says his Mother lived in Philadelphia; that he some time lived in New-York, and last Winter in New-Haven, from whence he came last March, and passing through Elizabeth-Town, took a Horse, Saddle and Bridle, was followed, and apprehended at the Indian Queen in Philadelphia, with the Horse, Saddle and Bridle.

John Morris, also a Native of Ireland, aged 49 Years; took a Horse at Springfield, near Elizabeth-Town, in August last; and apprehended in Morris County, with the Horse.

They both denied the Stealing the Horses, and said, that they purchased them from Persons travelling on the Road, to them unknown. They are to be executed on Friday, the 31st inst. October.

Captain Richards who arrived here on Tuesday last from the Grenades, informs us, that on the 3d of this instant, between the islands of St. Eustatia and Saba, he spoke with the brig Pitt, Captain Leffengwell, from New-London; who had met with a violent gale of wind, on the 21st of September, in lat. 25:28, in which she lost all her masts and cables, and all her stock, with which she had been laden, except 12 oxen; she was then under jury-masts, and two small schooners with her, who were endeavouring to tow her into St. Eustatia.

By Captain Richards we also hear, that Captain Jaquess, in a sloop belonging to Raway, in the Jersies, sailed from the Grenades the 10th of August last, which was four days before the violent hurricane at Martinico, and as we have not heard of Captain Jaquess since, his friends here are in great pain for him.

Captain Johnson, who arrived here yesterday from Rhode-Island, acquaints us, that Tuesday last in his passage hither, he saw a black brig ashore on Fisher's Island reef; and by her appearance he apprehends her bottom beat to peices; two boats were along side of her, supposed to be assisting in saving the people, and such part of the cargoe as was practicable.

On Tuesday night, between 10 and 12 o'clock, a number of soldiers with bayonets, went to several houses in the fields, where they were very noisy and abusive, to the great disturbance and terror of the inhabitants. This was occasioned, it is said, by ill treatment, which some of the soldiers had received the night before, at some of those infamous houses, which to the great scandal of our wholesome laws, are suffered to exist as so many receptacles for loose and disorderly people.

The boundary line between the Provinces of New-York and Quebec (the name now given to all Canada) is fixed at latitude 45 deg. which crosses Lake Champlain, about two and a half miles north of Wind-mill Point, and is distinguished by openings made on each side of the Lake, where several trees are girdled, and square posts set up, marked with the letters Y. and Q. pointing to the respective governments. The opening on the west side of the lake is at a low remarkable point of land, which was then, by the gentlemen present, named Moore's Point, in respect to his excellency Sir Henry Moore, our Governor. His excellency, and General Carleton, lieutenant-governor of Quebec, were each attended by several gentlemen from their respective governments.

While his excellency was at Wind-mill Point, several gentlemen from Quebec, took the opportunity to wait on him, and acquaint him with their claims, by grants from the French King, of all the lands in those parts, on both sides the Lake, as far south as Crown Point, or farther.----We are informed they very much insisted upon their right, from these grants, and that his excellency was pleased to acquaint them, that the determination would be left to the King and Council. Should the claims of these incroachers be admitted, it is hardly to be doubted but they may produce grants for all the lands to the north of fort Edward.

October 27. Last Monday Morning, about 2 o'Clock, we had very hard Thunder, and Lightning here; the Lightning struck a Barrack at Frogs-Point, the Property of Mr. John Smith, of this Place, which contained about 15 Tons of Salt Hay, and consumed the whole in less than Half an Hour.
